IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Bush, Who Is Playing Sensationally For Detroit.

Shortstop Owen Bush of Detroit is the sensation of the American league this season. His fielding and timely batting are helping the Tigers to win many games. Bush is only twenty-one years of age and is the smartest man on the Tigers. In 1907 he was secured from the South Bend (Ind.) team by Detroit. In 1908 he helped Indianapolis to win the pennant, and that fall he joined Detroit in time to enable the Tigers to win the championship. His work in twenty games was a big factor in Detroit's success that year. In 1909 Bush played in 157 championship games and had a batting average of .325. His record showed 308 put-outs, 567 assists and 71 errors, an average of a trifle more than six chances per game.

Pacer Dan Patch Retired.
Dan Patch has been permanently retired from the racing and speed exhibition stage. M. W. Savage, his owner, is authority for the statement that Dan Patch will never again be asked to start in attempts to lower the world's records. He says that this greatest of all horses has done his share of work and that his life from this time on will be spent in enjoying a well earned rest, in watching other harness horses struggle to lower his record and in perpetuating his greatness through his get. While the champion will not be called upon to make any of the mighty efforts that have made him famous, he will still do some traveling and during the summer months and fall will be an attraction at a large number of fairs all over the United States.

Big Baseball War Brewing.
According to a rumor, a big baseball war is brewing between the National and American leagues, and it is scheduled to break at the end of the present season. It is said the National will break away from the American next fall and instead of the two working in harmony, there will be keen competition between them. If this should come to pass it might furnish better and cheaper baseball, but it would not last and eventually would prove bad for the game. Wars of such a nature invariably fail, and some master hand gathers in all the profits.

National Athletic Meet.
In preparing for the A. A. U. national athletic championships, which will be held in New Orleans this year, a quarter mile cinder track is being constructed which is expected to be the equal of any in the country. It is being modeled after those at the Jamestown and St. Louis exhibitions. It will have 230 yards straight away for hurdles and the furlong dash. The inner field has football, gridiron and basketball courts and several jumping and vaulting pits.

Homer Michigan's Track Captain.
Joe Horner of Grand Rapids is captain of the Michigan track team for next season, although he cannot be said to have been elected to the place. Horner and Ralph Craig of Detroit were conceded to be the men between whom lay the honor of the captaincy. The men were so popular that the others on the track team refused to vote and left it to Craig and Horner to decide who was to be captain. They left it to the toss of a coin, and Horner won. He is the intercollegiate champion shot putter.

Changing Teams Sometimes Helps.
Every time a veteran player changes from one team to another a club has to adopt an entirely new set of signals. Tim Murnane says that the continual switching of players from one team to another has been an education all around.

Tablet Commemorating the Birth of the Republican Party

College professors cannot agree as to the wording on the bronze tablet unveiled by President Taft at Monroe, Mich., recently. The professors do not like the language used by the committee in calling attention to the spot where the Republican party was born. Former President Eliot of Harvard took exception to what he termed the "gushing efforts of telling a simple statement." He preferred plain words and found fault with "Under the Oaks." In the meantime the stone and tablet attract scores of tourists to the little city of Monroe.

Milwaukee's Socialist Mayor

How does Milwaukee view the election of a Socialist to the post of Mayor? Human Life for July gives an intimate story of Emil Seidel, the newly elected mayor, and also Victor L. Berger, who is recognized as the brains, the mainpring of the new administration, and who has given the assurance that fairness and justice to all will be the watchword of the new regime. Milwaukee's experiment of flinging to the breeze the flag of Socialism from her City Hall will be watched with unparalleled interest by other cities the country over.

The story has unique features all through. It was the greatest victory ever achieved by any political party in Milwaukee since the city was founded. For the first time a mayor had been elected who was absolutely free to do as he pleased in the filling of the offices within his gift, but—and right here Mr. Seidel showed that he had some very unusual ideas on the matter of appointing city officials.

Who is this man Seidel, and how is he equipped by training and temperament for the task he essays? The story shows the man to be quite as out of the ordinary in many respects as are his ideas. The manner in which he has disposed of his private business affairs so that he may be unhampered to devote all his time to city affairs might be called quixotic by many, but it proves that Seidel is a Socialist in practice as well as in theory. His work in rooting out the temptations that lure the youth of the city to destruction promises to be one of the most radical and far-reaching features of his administration, and his stand on many other questions is of peculiar interest.
