Games for To-day.

Peoria at South Bend.
Fort Wayne at Dayton.
Grand Rapids at Wheeling.
Terre Haute at Toledo.

One more from Peoria, but this time it was "mighty" close, and the Greens knew when they put through that they had been in a game. For eight long innings each side was blanked. The Greens took things easy for a few innings, confident that they would break into the game before long. But when into the game came the fifth, sixth and seventh aged by and "John Henry" Myers weakened not, but simply spread them down in rows of three; they began to grow desperate.

The eighth passed without result, and the locals came to bat in the last inning with a determination to do-inning with a determination to do-things. They did. Truman opened with a hit to left. Grant bunted and McGrew dropped Shannon's throw, saving both runners safe. "Bunny Jim" Sager then tried to sacrifice. McGrew dropped his roller and threw to second base, but the umpire called Sager out for interference, so called out on strikes although the last ball would have hit him if he had not dodged. With the bases full and with a dinky for won his own game, Schafer drew a base on balls, forcing Truman and Grant. Sager brought in the third run on Coffey's out to left field. Several times during the game all hands came near scoring. Chagnon reached third on a single, but on three times was left waiting for his team mates to bring him in. With two out in the seventh Andrews reached first on three strikes, but was left on third. Myers also reached safety once. In the eighth, with two out, Plummer hit to left field. Coffey tried for the out, the ball went past to Plummer the time it was relayed to Plummer the runner was safe. Had he not been lazy he would have had an easy home run. As it was, Cooley hit sharply to Andrews who retired him at first.

Myers and Schafer, the opposing pitchers, were in excellent form, the former striking out 11 of the Greens and allowing nine hits. He gave one base on balls and hit two men. Schafer struck out three men, was hit safely twice and gave no base on balls. Four of Peoria's hits were made after two men were out. There being no umpire present, Smith, of South Bend, and Summers, of Peoria divided the work. Smith called the balls and strikes, decided in, and that was when he called Grant safe at second in the ninth. The play was close, and may have been either way. At any rate, it made no difference, as Sager was retired, on the other hand, acted as though he would steal the game if he dared, making several rather dexterous and calling strikes on the South Bend boys when the ball was near the plate. Caught Between Innings.

To-day is the last for Peoria, and the Greens are champions.

Cooley tore a finger nail loose in attempting to catch Cogswell at second base in the fifth.

Myers was certainly in great form. He has always been unsuccessful against the Greens, although a good pitcher, and he was unsuccessful yesterday, with Summers' help.

A particularly bad decision by Summers was when he called Anderson out at third in the eighth. The umpire evidently knew of "dead" at the plate, although there was a "dead" at the field with uncontested pleasure. When the Greens came to bat in the ninth he commenced to call every ball pitched a strike. When he called Andrews out on strikes he capped the climax.

NEWS OF THE CENTRAL LEAGUE

Peoria-Marion May Sign Pitcher Harvey Bailey.

Harvey Bailey, ex-Green and several of the leagues in after a job with Peoria-Marion. As the team is now a strikeout team, the release of Fleming it is not improbable that the former South Bend twirler will be taken on. He has had a run of hard luck this season.

After the rousting which Umpire Smith received from the fans in the game of the Evansville game, the following from the Dayton Herald sounds good: "Judge Stephen Kane occupied the judicial stand at Fairview 1st yesterday afternoon and if he could be as fair as any official at the game could possibly give them."

Dayton made a wonderful rout record on the last trip of the team by losing seven games in succession.

Indifferent support on the part of the newspapers perhaps has been the cause for the disastrous baseball blunders of Dayton. The Herald says that city have actually been able to "stick" for a very long time. Since the Peoria team of the Central league was taken away from the town, yesterday's game was the first one that practically involved the club in its reports of the games. When C. W. Halbersen, of Marion, transferring the Marion franchise early in the season he promised to transfer the team to Dayton the team very closely with full reports of all games, and in this way helped to keep alive an interest in baseball which has resulted in the transfer of the franchise to Dayton.

Jack Griffin, former first baseman, and manager of the Marion and Peoria teams has been appointed an official umpire in the American association.

The sound of the gong in the 15th round saved Hanlon from defeat at that period, but in the next round he

SCHAFER PITCHES HIS FIRST HOME GAME.

Probably no player in the Central league has had better luck this season than George Schafer. Previous to yesterday he had pitched but two games and both of those were at Dayton. Schafer is a South Bend boy and one of the best twirlers in the league when he is in form.

RAILWAY MEN MEET

CHICAGO & INDIANA AIR LINE CHANGES ITS NAME.

Capital Stock is Increased to $3,000,000—Several Officers Are Chosen —Progress of Work.

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Chicago & Indiana Air Line Railway company was held this morning in the local office of the corporation, the chief business of which was represented. Those present from out of the city were F. B. Wagner, the newly elected president; J. S. Bloom, vice president and general manager; Francis C. McMillan, treasurer; Henry W. Judd, a prominent banker, and Judge Carlin, of Hinsdale, all of Cleveland, O.

The name of the corporation was changed to the Chicago, South Shore & South Bend Railway company, the former name not being with the approval of the majority of the stockholders, who felt it did not set forth properly the field of operations of the company. Mr. Hanna, in addition to other officers, was made secretary of the company, Mr. Wagner, president, Mr. Judd, vice president, Mr. Bloom, secretary and W. Osgood Cotton, of Chicago, assistant treasurer.

Mr. Judd was chosen a member of the board of directors, Judge Carlin was made general counsel and Attorney F. J. Lewis Meyer, of this city, was made counsel for Indiana. The directors were authorized to increase the capital stock of the company from $1,000,000 to the extent of the effectives in increasing the bond issue to $1,000,000 was ratified and approved.

The company expects to have its entire line completed by next summer. The line from Indiana Harbor to East Chicago has been completed and cars are running on the division. The work on the line from East Chicago to the city of Hammond, and from the St. Joseph county line westward, all of the right of way from South Bend to Michigan City has been secured, and the work is now pending for the balance of the right of way between Michigan City and Indiana Harbor, the major portion of which has been secured.

The work is being pushed on this end of the line and will be pushed westward to Michigan City as rapidly as possible. Machinery for the power houses is being arranged for and if the power station will be built in South Bend.

General Manager Hanna stated the entire equipment of the company is to be of the best and most modern type. The cars will be large and heavy so as to be able to run at a speed of from 60 to 70 miles an hour. It is the intention to make the interurban service between Chicago, between South Bend and Chicago, the cars will be arranged with every convenience for the welfare, the comfort and the safety of the passengers.

OBTAIN FINE WATER SUPPLY

Important Improvement at Studebaker Plant Gives Great Results.

An important work has been going on for some time at the plant of the Studebaker Bros. Manufacturing company in connection with the water supply. This has been obtained from a deep well 40 feet deep and 31 feet in diameter. The bottom of the well is 10 feet below the river bed and the water gushes up in a never-failing stream, clear, pure and cold.

The well as originally constructed was built of stone and brick, the concentrated wall or band of loose brick, jumbled above and below the brick bound with the rods, the wall to look nice when he puts the ring on.

"Maybe I'll hear all about it the next time I come in."

The Minor Poet.

"Minor poets," said Howard Chandler Christy, the illustrator, "are apt to be jealous of one another and to treat one another rudely and spitefully.

"At a literary dinner the other day I heard two minor poets talk about each other.

"I saw your villanelle in the Stark magazine, said the first.

"'Did you?' said the other.

"'Yes, and I thought it a compliment paying me, too, by a great lady.'

"'What did she say?'

"'The first verse just laughed.

"'Why,' he answered, 'she wanted to know if I had written it.'"

Each Person to His Calling.

Bourke Cockran was asked by a St. Louis reporter to give the public some advice on the art of public speaking.

"A youth," Mr. Cockran answered, "once came to me with two questions to ask and complaints to make. He made the first complaint in this way:

"'How may I become an effective speaker, a successful public speaker, sir?'

"The old lecturer laughed.

"'The wants to be a public speaker, do he, hah?' he said. 'Air the thinks Ann the chap to put the up to a lecture about it? They might, hah, hah.'

"Now, hark the. When the chest to the geography, hit hole and open thy mouth. If newt comest, tak's a sup the water, and if thy mouth be full of the water, tak's a bite the victuals.'

"Then, if newt comes, tak thyself, air! Air have public speakin' to such as me.'"

Rather a Good Scheme.

Reginald Vanderbilt, admirably dressed, sat in his box at the Philadelphia horse show.

"He is no fool," said a Philadelphia man said of the young man. "He has not been born rich he would have made a good living anyhow. He is the son of a fellow that exemplifies the readiness and alertness of his mind.

"He was traveling one day from New York to Boston. The weather was sultry and he was in his shirt sleeves. He had sat at the window to use the landscape better. Thus, all of a sudden, his hat blew off.

"Quick as a flash young Vanderbilt stuck his head out of the window and out of the window after his hat. A shout of laughter arose.

"'What on earth did you do that for?' everybody asked. 'You don't expect the porter boy to bring back your hat, do you?'

"'I do,' replied the young man. 'There's no name in the hat, but my full name and address are on the band. I have a good scheme that the porter be rewarded to me promptly.'"

A Fly Killer.

J. W. Jacobs, the English humorist, is as modest as he is brilliant.

"The things that people laugh at most in my stories are those I do not consider, I have nearly always thrown that I have heard and noted down. They are not original with me.

"On that account wherever I go I always have my ears open. I feel it my duty to be a good listener.

"I got hold of a good thing last week in Margate. I was looking at a butcher shop's display when the butcher came out and addressed me.

"'Sorry I want to speak—'

"'What do you want?' the old man asked.

"'Why,' said the butcher, 'I'll give you a shilling if you will come in and kill all the flies in my shop.'

"'All right,' said the old man. 'Give me the shilling first and I'll go straight forward.'

"The butcher handed out the shilling. Then the old man asked for a stick about a yard long. This was brought to him. He stripped it firmly, went to the doorway and said:

"'Now, flies 'ere out, one at a time.'"
