The South Bend Central league club will open its 1911 season at home May 4 with Wheeling, eight days after the opening of the league session. While no definite date has been set by Owner Bert Annis it is thought Wheeling will be the favored club in that the pennant, won in 1910, will probably be raised during the Steglos stay here. It is possible, however, that some other club will be given the plumb, since the Southerners have the opening date in South Bend.

South Bend will open at Terre Haute when the Central league starts on its ninth year, April 26, the Broncho boys scheduled for four games at Terrville beginning with that day. Frank Owner L. D. Smith will open the jump at Evansville, May 3, the Tigers also having their opponents for a quartette of contests. They will then return home to appear for the first time here an official 1910 Kangaroo. Wheeling being met at Springbrook May 4, 5, 6 and 7.

The champions will play at Springbrook park for 14 days, Wheeling, Zanesville, Terre Haute and Evansville players spiking the green during the month of May. Dates are now to be in order, the two holiday dates on Decoration Day being scheduled for Grand Rapids. The first eight days of the jaunt will be spent at Wheeling in Ohio.

The Central Tigers' Stags will return with the Bronco and will open here June 1 for a series of four games. The local braves will meet all comers, who will be Dayton and Fort Wayne. An eight day circuit swing will then be made by the Bronco, the Tigers leading the cities to be visited. That trip will be short, but hard, for both the Hillsiens and Vets are conceded to have exceptionally strong teams, especially the former.

First Three Game Series.

Wheeling will open its home play here from June 21 to 23, the first three game series beginning with the visits of these teams here. Another invasion of the south will follow, Evansville and Terre Haute being taken in turn. Grand Rapids has the second holiday date, July 3, 4, 5, 6, and will be the clubs jumping from Terre Haute to the Stags' city for two Fourth of July contests.

A long stay at home will be enjoyed by the Bronco when Wheeling, Zanesville, Grand Rapids, Terre Haute, Evansville, Fort Wayne, Dayton and Grand Rapids being met from July 8 to 19. Terre Haute, Evansville, Fort Wayne and Dayton will be met in August. Manager Smith, as the strongest club in the league with whom he must contend, and he has shown all in a row in this long period of play on the local lot, the Stags' city will finish the July schedule, and will be the cities south of the Bend being visited on the invasion of foreign territory. Wheeling will be met first, and Zanesville, Fort Wayne and Dayton will be visited in turn.

The home of the Hillsiens the Broncho will going into the first August series with the Atoletics, Wheeling, Terre Haute, and Evansville following in their dates around the circuit. Dayton, the Vets' Ohio pennant chasers, undoes then fast earnestly hope, attempt to wrest victories from their opponents in their own stronghold, Terre Haute, Evansville, Fort Wayne and Dayton being in this round of the Bronco. With all teams fighting for every inch, they will return to South Bend. Punch Knoll and his Vets will close the last August series here, Wheeling, Dayton, Zane will close the last month of play for the 1911 pennant. Grand Rapids will meet the Benders for the third time in holiday games, being scheduled to play here on Labor Day.

Season Ends Sept. 10.

South Bend will not play open the season on her home grounds, the club will close with Dayton and Fort Wayne, two of the strongest contenders for league honors, according to present dope. The season will be ended on the Bend lot September 10, in a double. If the Hillsiens and Broncos are struggling as they never last season even the great attendance mark set last season, here, when nearly 100,000 fans passed the turnstiles, would be in danger of being broken.

South Bend and Grand Rapids will meet in all holiday games, Fort Wayne and Dayton in Ohio, Wheeling and Zanesville, bitter rivals, will battle on the days when nobody works, while Evansville and Terre Haute, between which cities a keen rivalry is developed, will battle on Decoration Day, May 30, July 4, and Sept. 4. To get the fans to land a holiday game test will the Hillsiens, the locals are scheduled for four Sunday dates with Uncle Sam; dangerous competitors for the flag in 1910, two here and two at Fort Wayne. The Railroaders will open the Sunday season here with a quartette of games in June, June 11, of their stay here in that month being a Sunday. The following Sabbath the locals will be opposed to the Hillsiens on their grounds, Sept. 3 will see Casey's warriors again on Sunday, Sept. 17 the Vets will close the season with a double header on Sunday with Fort Wayne on the latter's field.

Sunday Games.

Other Sunday games here are: Grand Rapids, June 4; Evansville, June 11; Dayton, June 18; Terre Haute, July 16; Zanesville, June 25; and Wheeling, May 7, Aug. 6.

When the wooly Hettentots visit this burg, under a different name this season than the Kangaroo they started out in, they will meet with a warm reception. Wheeler is credited with gathering a strong bunch of boxers together, while Smith, seem he springs a few of his promised surprises, will present as good line-up as the Central circuit has to offer. Bad feeling exists between the local and Tot management because of the Wheeler-Annis trouble, and both teams will scrap, egged on by their leaders. Wheeling, of course, is not our natural rival, but Bert Annis will leave no stone unturned to legitimately down Wheeler and his downstairs.

The 1911 schedule of the Central league published to-day in The Tribune is considered an excellent arrangement of playing dates by Central league magnates, it is the result of the conference held here by Ed Adams, of this city. Dr. F. R. Crowell, league president, has pronounced it to be the best schedule ever drafted in this organization, at least.

REFUSES OFFER FOR HOLT.

Ted Corbitt After Youngster Contract of Callahan Received.

Manager Ed Smith, of the Bronchos, received an offer to-day from Manager Ted Corbitt, former South Bend twirler, of the Rochester Minnesota-Wisconsin league club for Alva Holt, the youngster whom Smith expects to develop into a good outfielder. Smith does not wish to dispose of Holt, however, before trying him out, so refused the offer made in a letter to the Bronco leader. Ted told Ed of the signing of Callahan, the youngster.

The morning mail brought a few other bits of news, the contract of John Callahan, the young shortstop who accepted Smith's terms a week ago, being received. Callahan, it seems, says he has had experience in league ball, but no record of his performances can be found. Manager McCarthy looks to be the ranks of recommendation, Callahan being the Cubs' coach last spring, a recommendation he has discovered over in Kankakee, Ill. The young fellow is a "phenom" in the south, Mac, and would be a good investment for Smith. He plays the third sack, and has had semi-pro experience in the Illinois-Indiana league, he accompanied Jack Cole on, and also give him a chance, as he hands on Mickey's judgment as good.

Manager Reilly was anxious to catch the American association stories before they were secured by some other club, and he recommended the purchase of the two players.
