

PERHAPS YOU HAVE SEEN Nick Altrock perform his clown tricks before a Washington baseball game. But if you haven't you can see his counterpart next Tuesday night at Lippincott park. Walter (Rabbit) Maranville, who will play shortstop with the Athletics against Elkhart, is a comedian in his own right. He pulls stunts with a baseball which are downright clever as well as difficult. Maranville has promised to put on his clown act after Babe Ruth finishes hitting a few balls over Lippincott's walls. His slow-motion base running and sliding is just about tops.

Incidentally, Fred Foreman, Studebaker baseball chairman, is preparing to seat 9,000 persons next Tuesday night. Advance ticket sales indicate the largest baseball crowd in South Bend history.
