BATTLE OF PITCHERS

SCHAEFFER BEATS OUT BENDER

Greens and University of Nebraska Put Up Pretty Game of Ball at Springbrook Park—South Bend Wins by Score of 7 to 6.

The Greens defeated Nebraska university yesterday afternoon by a score of 7 to 6, the contest being a battle of the pitchers, Schaeffer and Bender. For eight innings the two youngsters pitched a remarkably pretty game of ball, the deceptive South Bend lad holding the visitors to five hits and the college freshman allowing the Greens but three singles.

In the ninth, however, rain interfered with the work and when the Greens finished the ninth, Schaeffer and Grant had made triples, Arndt a double and Dwyer a single, all of which accounted for five runs. Nebraska also took a hand in the hitting at this stage of the game and ended the contest with singles by Dwyer and DePutron and a triple by the latter, which would, had the game have happened had not Dwyer robbed Gaines of a hit by making a sensational one handed stop of a liner, is not to be told as the ball was too wet for any pitcher to handle.

Hood's Good Work.

The hitting work of Nebraska was fast, Hood at third base accepting 11 chances without an error. Vogt, of the Greens, had eight chances, but fell down in his throwing and was thereby credited with three bad errors. Dwyer, of the Greens, was getting mixed up with his throws in three different chances, two of which he succeeded in getting away with.

Dwyer opened the game for the Greens by dropping a single into left. He reached second on an error of Gaines, stole third and reached home on another error by Gaines. The second run was made by Vogt in the second inning, he reaching first on a fielder's choice, stealing second when Dwyer was caught napping and scoring on Koehler's hit to right field.

Two runs were scored in the sixth, Grant and Arndt crossed the plate. The former went to first on a gift and Arndt took the initial bag because Bender scattered and Vogt hit to left, Grant and Arndt scoring on Towne's error. Koehler hit safely in the seventh and Dwyer followed with a single. In the ninth with Koehler on first as the result of a base on balls, Schaeffer landed on the ball for a beautiful three base hit, the sphere going to the fence. Dwyer brought the pitcher home with another single and Grant sent Dwyer over the plate with a triple to left. Arndt followed with a double and then scored on Fowler's drive to center.

Nebraska Scores.

For Nebraska, Bender scored in the second on two errors by Vogt, the latter's throwing out of left field and Arndt on a good throw. In the sixth no error by Dwyer on Bender's hit, a single by Hill and an error of Vogt on Hood's slow hit and two passed balls by Fowler, allowed Bender, Rhodes and Hill to score. Singles by Rhodes and DePutron, a Bender's error on Hood's steal and Bender's fielder's choice accounted for the tally by DePutron and resulted in the ninth. The score:

KEELEY WILL PITCH

Former Notre Dame Student to Play With Greens.

Bert Keeley, of last year's Notre Dame pitching staff, has been signed by Manager Grant to pitch for the Greens and he will arrive in the city tomorrow and on Sunday will twirl against the Gunthers. Fowler, who caught yesterday's game will again be behind his bat. Koehler will be transferred from right field to left and Madden will go into the garden vacated by Koehler. This move will greatly strengthen the team, Koehler having distinguished himself as an outfielder while with the Greens last season on his ball and he is assured to show up in good shape with the bat in the near future. Fowler, the new catcher, is a lively player and when he reverts to may make a good backstop. He comes to the Greens highly recommended. As a feature for Sunday the Third Regiment band will furnish an musical programme at 3 o'clock. The lineup of the two teams will be as follows:

Greens.	Nebraska.
Dwyer, ss.	Gaethlen.
Grant, 2b.	Uhler, H.

Tooth Brushes.

As most people are aware, vegetable substitutes are considered healthier. Here are some worth bearing in mind. Asparagus is very cooling and easily digested. Cabbage, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts and spinach are nourishing, nutritive and purifying to the blood and also act as tonics. Celery should be eaten too freely by delicate persons. Celery is good for rheumatic and gouty persons. Lettuce are very wholesome. They are slightly narcotic and lull and calm the mind. Spinach is particularly good for rheumatism and gout, and also in kidney diseases. Onions are good for chest ailments and colds, but do not agree with all. Watercresses are excellent tonics and cooling. Beetroot is very cooling and highly nutritious, owing to the amount of sugar contained in it. Tomatoes are purifying. Potatoes, parsnips, carrots, turnips and artichokes are highly nutritious, but not as digestible as some other vegetables. Potatoes are the most nourishing and are fattening for nursing persons. Tomatoes are healthy, giving and purifying, either eaten raw or cooked. Salt, pepper, mustard and tamarind should be used sparingly. They give a zest to the appetite and are valuable stomachics. Mustard is good for a cold in the chest. Tamarind is a gentle laxative and should not be eaten by delicate persons. Bismarck.

COTTON GINNING.

Interesting Bulletin Issued for the Time by the United States.

The census Bulletin issue time for been devoted to the statistics of cotton ginning and is the first report of its kind ever made by a United States census. The reason for this innovation in our methods of collecting information and publication is interesting. For many years practically the entire cotton crop reached the markets through the transportation lines. The result was that a close approximation to the actual crop was obtained from the returns of these carriers. In recent years, however, there has been a rapid development of cotton fields. Many thousands of bales that never touch a transportation line are consumed by the mills in the south which in 1899 manufactured 23.6 per cent of the total crop and 30.9 per cent of the total American consumption. As it is no longer possible to get an idea of the amount of the crop from the returns of the transportation lines the last census has collected the statistics of the amount of cotton ginned. Of course everybody knows that prior to the invention of the cotton gin by Eli Whitney in 1794 the separation of the seed from the lint had had to be done by hand, the task being four pounds of lint cotton per week for each head of a family, working at night in addition to the usual field work. It took one person two years to turn out the quantity of cotton contained in one average standard bale. At the present time one mill-chine will gin from three to fifteen bales per day.

This one machine does the work of thousands of men. In 1790, before the cotton gin was dreamed of, our production was 3,889 bales of average weight of 225 pounds. In 1899, the production was 9,241,231 bales of an average weight of 500 pounds. These latest statistics were obtained by collecting the amount of cotton ginned.—New York Sun.

Berlin an Up-to-Date City.

The traveler from the west will find something peculiarly striking in the first impressions received on his arrival at the Prussian capital. The train enters into the spacious terminus, which seems to be so long as to compel a few blue-blooded railway porters, who are the obsequiousness of ease blind on wall, affixed platform or footway to remind the traveler that he is dealing commercial characters of modern life. The nickel-polished helmet of the policeman, the uniform, the military, the drilled bureaucratic character of the nation, and of the capital in particular. There is no excitement, no alarm, no panic. Everybody is on the alert, for they are modern Prussians, all, everything—conductors of tickets, exodus of passengers, engaging of porters, the menace of a metal disc—to deep by rule and rule with the utmost celerity consistent with order.—Harper's Magazine.
