FULLER IS TRADED

EX-NATIONAL LEAGUE MAN TO PLAY WITH EVANSVILLE.

NO KICKING ON UMPIRES

Dickerson Wants Another Site For Baseball Franchise—Will Adopt Constitution and By Laws—Mueller's Schedule is Best.

The biggest surprise that has been sprung in the Central league this spring is the announcement that Dayton has traded Catcher "Slick" Fuller to Evansville, for Catcher Frank Cross. While the deal was made at the recent Central league meeting held at Grand Rapids, the fact did not develop until the local magnates returned to the city and let the cat out of the bag. It was the intention to keep the deal secret until April 1. Fuller was with the Brooklyn National league team two seasons and was formed to Montreal, of the Eastern league. He first became known through his playing with the South Bend team under Aggie Grant.

There is to be no kicking on the umpires in the Central league this year, that is if the remarkable finish of the Grand Rapids schedule meeting counts for anything. Standing at the banquet table with wineglass in upraised hand, President Hennan, at the first banquet of the New York Americans, asked Managers Grant, Ryan, Hendricks, Meyers and Herman to join him in a pledge not to offer the least interference to the umpires during this year and they all joined in the toast.

Gossip of the Central.

President Hennan, of the Terre Haute club, her stopped writing scoop for a time and is now figuring on the cost of running a ball club. After several hours of good hard labor he finished up the job and the figures are as follows:

Thirteen men, five months, $3,300; 14 men, twelve days, $2,856; 14 men, twenty days, $4,760; 14 men, one series, $1,700; 14 men, bus and street car fare, $144; one bus manager's salary, $400; police, ticket sellers and takers, $600; ground keeper, $300; advertising, $1,000; stationery, $100; telegraph, telephone and postings, $300; balls, bats, uniforms, etc, $300; park rent, $400; transportation and hotels during training, $500; extra players before June 1, $500; total, $16,000.

A Springfield newspaper feels very angry about the schedule that was adopted for the Central league. The fans of Springfield feel that they have not been given a square deal as their team will open away from home and close the season with a series at home. Twelve of these games are with Wheeling, Grand Rapids and South Bend, the three strongest teams in the league. The newspapers think the schedule should be changed so that before it returns home so it will probably be a second division team.

If Bob Knoll is unable to manage his team from the field the early part of the season it will not be he will manage them from the bench.

Circuit Not Completed.

President Dickerson, of the Interstate league is casting for another site for a franchise as it has been learned that Con Strothers, of Columbus, O., who had planned to place a team at Lima, O., because of an inability to secure suitable ground, Hamilton figured on transferring the franchise to Anderson, Ind., but the officials of the league report that city as a dead letter town so far as baseball is concerned, and Dickerson is now trying to induce that place in the circuit.

The matter will be settled at a meeting of the league directors which will be held at Lima, O., on March 19 when Strothers will be present and make a business appeal of the city to throw their influence towards getting a park. If some kind of an agreement is not made at that time it is likely that the Anderson team will be transferred. This town has been a winner in independent baseball since the interurban lines have entered the place. At the Lima meeting a constitution and by laws will be adopted and a schedule will be made up. The season will open on April 26 at Port Wayne, Anderson, Muncie, Lima or Lemasport. The best schedule to-date is that compiled by H. O. Mueller, of South Bend.

GRAND RAPIDS POET BUSY,

Writes "Ryan's Dixie" and "Good Old Aggie Grant."

A Grand Rapids poet signing himself "E. N. M." has written the following parodies on the Central league:

RYAN'S DIXIE.

I've got a team in Evansville
That'll make all others stand quite still,
Look away, look away, look away Dixie land.
For when my bench gets down to playing
They'll take the bed without delaying
Look away, look away, look away to Ryan's land.

Then we'll hold the flags in rapture,
Hooray! Hooray!
In Indianapolis we'll make our stand,
The pennants we will capture,
Away, away, away down south, says Ryan.

GOOD OLD AGGIE GRANT.

There's a man in this league who knows no fatigue,
Good old Aggie Grant.
He works day and night, no doubt he'll be slight,
Good old Aggie Grant.
He hails from South Bend, where each fan is his friend;
He can't do much this season he can't
He may be is signing, to win he's designing
Good old Aggie Grant.

Good old Aggie Grant, good old Aggie Grant,
Through the months of summer time with his bubbles spins,
He'll lead South Bend to victory, and that's a very good sign
That the flag next year will surely go to
Good old Aggie Grant.

NEWS OF THE TRACKS.

Tanana, a 20 to 1 Shot, Wins at San Francisco.

The first and second races brought surprises at San Francisco yesterday, the initial event being won by Tanana at 20 to 1, while the second was captured by Sir Doland at 12 to 1. The latter was in the last jump from Dick Wolfe, the jockey.

Tom Dorsey and Incubator were the only successful favorites at City park, New Orleans, La., yesterday. The Dead Pool of Cornish, which was used by Sinking pace, was the heaviest loser the Orleans suffered. Summa, 2 2-year-old

EXERCISE FOR OFFICE MEN.

BY DR. W. R. C. LATSON.

No class of men suffer more from lack of exercise than office men. Sitting all day in a cramped and stooping position, with only the brain and the two hard busy—this is not the hardest kind of work, but work which interferes with the proper action of the lungs, stomach, liver and other important organs.

The office man needs abundance of exercise.

The following has been prescribed many times in such cases, with good satisfactory results:

Fig. 1.—Stand with feet together, head hanging south. Take full, slow breath. Then, holding the same, stretch the body upward and forward. (See Fig. 1). Take in all the air you can; make the chest as big as possible; sway as far forward as you can. Keep the head up. After about 10 second exhale the breath and relax the muscles. Repeat six to 10 times.

Exercise No. 2.—Stand flat, feet together. Then while holding it take a long step forward with right foot and extend body and arms forward and downward toward the floor. (See Fig. 2). Repeat three to five times.

Exercise No. 3.—Stand flat, feet wide apart, hands on hips, arms akimbo. Bend down the trunk as all from. This means, on hands and feet, not on the knees and knees. This movement calls into play every important muscle of the body, and is one of the best general exercises I know.

AFTER NEW BRIDGE

BETTER STRUCTURE WANTED AT LA SALLE AVENUE.

Petition in Circulation Receiving Signatures of Prominent and Heavy Tax Payers of the City.

A petition is in circulation and will be presented to the county commissioners requesting them to order the immediate construction of a bridge across the St. Joseph river at LaSalle avenue to replace the present iron structure, which is very old. The bridge has been in constant use for over 30 years. Traffic on it has been very heavy and the petition sets forth, excessive, while the approaches are in very bad shape. The foundations are said to be in good condition.

There are several reasons why the commissioners should consider replacing of this old bridge by one of modern design and built for modern traffic. The petitions for the bridge have signed by practically all heavy tax payers in the city.

EDITOR OWNS OLD BIBEL

Marion Hamlin Ingrim Possesses Some Valuable Relics.

The Tribune's Special Service.

Winamac, Ind., March 16.—Marion Hamlin Ingrim, editor of the Democrat-Journal of this place, owns an ancient family Bible published at Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1620, by Evans Taylor "Ye printer to the king most excellent majesty." This makes this Bible 386 years old. From time of publication to present generation, the births, marriages and deaths of the Ingrim family have been recorded. The editor's home is veritable cabinet of ancient relics. Among them are a flag used in the Revolutionary war in 1776 in Kingston and afterwards a large quantity were shipped to America, and used in a barn owned by Gen. George Washington at Mt. Vernon, Va. Also a chair made of wood taken from the Masonic building at Logansport, Ind., in August, 1826.

Editor Ingrim has hundreds of war relics taken from the battle fields of the Confederacy. The veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic are letting a newspaper editor for 41 years, in the year he was elected he was captain of Battery A, Mississippi light artillery. Editor Ingrim wears the southern cross of honor presented by the United Daughters of the Confederacy, daughters of the Confederacy. He is a member of the Sons of the Revolution.

BUY AN OHIO PLANT

STUDEBAKERS OBTAIN GARFORD MANUFACTURING COMPANY.

Product of Elyria Factory Will be Used in Producing Celebrated South Bend Automobiles.

The Studebaker Bros. Manufacturing company, of this city, has purchased the Garford Manufacturing company, of Elyria, O., paying over $50,000 cash. The Garford company is and has for several years been recognized throughout the automobile world as the builder of the best automobile engine and chassis complete in detail and has been furnishing its product to many of the leading automobile makers in the United States and Europe.

The company represents the best mechanical and engineering brains possible to get together. Its product is based upon the improved American, English and French ideas of automobile design which will give the already celebrated Studebaker car the enviable reputation of being not only one of the foremost automobiles in the world but one of the best cars produced anywhere in the entire automobile industry. Manufactured automobile manufacturers are merely those who buy the parts at different places and then assemble them into a machine which they put out as a finished automobile. It is this class of cars which have been a great deal of injury to the automobile trade and floods the market with cheap and unreliable cars which have a fine appearance, but which will not stand up under the strain of automobile driving.

It is believed the public is learning to discriminate and is rapidly being educated to the understanding that most of the articles of good leather and rubber, which go to the purchase of a car, are the product of the Ohio maker. The Studebaker people feel that they are now in position to justly claim the distinction of building the Studebaker car complete in every detail. Their extensive factories and their enormous factories is looked to be in reality emphasize the truth of their new famous expression, an automobile "with a reputation behind it," and the fact that the Garford is to be a Studebaker means that the public can absolutely depend on it.

The plant in Elyria will be continued, but improved, as in the past and will still be known as the Garford Manufacturing company. It will be operated under the same the new design which will be made upon it. The purchase of this plant is the result of several years of careful watching by the Studebakers of the development of the Garford and its manufacture. They have sent expert engineers to various points in Europe and the United States with a view to constant study of the progress of mechanical design and construction. They have placed themselves in position to give the world automobiles of the highest type of design and workmanship.

MEN WANTED ELSEWHERE.

Tools Stolen From Lydick Saw Mill Have Been Identified.

The three men arrested by Officer George Parker last Wednesday afternoon and who admitted that they had entered a saw mill at Lydick, this county, and stolen tools which were found in their possession are still in the county jail.

One of the three men admitted that it was their intention to enter and rob two South Bend stores. It is believed by the officer here that the men or at least two of them are wanted for robbery in other parts of the state. Chief of Police James McWeeney is in communication with several officers in Michigan and Ohio.

The tools found in possession of the men have been identified as those taken from the saw mill by the owner.
