NEWS OF MISHAWAKA

FEDERAL MARSHAL SERVES PAPERS ON FIRM.

LIVELY CHASE AFTER MEN

Charles Starkweather Single Handed Captures Three Charged With Housebreaking—Mrs. Jasper Hutchinson Surprised.

BUREAU OF THE TRIBUNE, 115 S. MAIN ST., THE M. S. BOWERS BLDG., MISHAWAKA, IND.

United States Marshal Henry C. Pettit, of Indianapolis, was in the city this morning and served papers on the Mishawaka Woolen Manufacturing company to answer to the damage suit for $50,000 instituted by Daniel H. Shepp, Horace Shaver and Noel Arden Flood, of Philadelphia, for the alleged failure to pay the plaintiffs' commission for the sale of the holding in the United States Rubber company. The suit is directed against the chief stockholders of the Mishawaka concern as published in The Tribune Saturday.

Although the Mishawaka Woolen Manufacturing company has given out no direct information regarding the case for publication, it is known for a certainty that the company will not "shell out" the half million dollars in cash or bond paid. It is also alleged that the case is one of the biggest schemes to extract money from a business concern that has been tried in late years. Local people who are in the Woolen company believe that the plaintiffs will not be successful in the case. Mishawaka people will await the trial and the revelations made with interest.

Lively Chase After Trespassers.

As Mrs. Charles Starkweather was leaving her home on Lincoln way this morning east of the M. V. Dreger farm on Second street, she found that she was being followed by three young men. She hurried home with her arms full of parcels and the three men also hastened their steps. When they arrived at the house, they attempted to enter one side, the house being a double one, but the occupant, Mrs. Dean had locked the door and had taken away a bicycle belonging to Mr. Dean. They then entered the Starkweather home, bent possibly on burglary if nothing worse. Mrs. Starkweather was now alarmed and ran to the nearest house across the fields to the plant of the National Veneer Products company and notified her husband, an employe. He ran home and recalling an unloaded rifle not owned by him, ran to the house and secured it the lively chase by other employes of the plant. Finally Mr. Starkweather caught up with the three men and with the aid of the rifle brought the men into submission. Two of them escaped but were later recaptured.

A telephone message was sent from the veneer plant to the city police and Chief Fred Stockdale, Patrolman Jarrett and Special Policeman Dellinger were sent to the place. Upon the disturbance in the automobile of Fred Eberhart, jr. They found the prisoners bleeding from their wounds and brought them to the city and locked them up. The men are Charles Starkweather, Frank Brunner, Joe Mellette and Robert Templeton, of Kansas City, Mo. A charge of house breaking will probably be brought against them. The prisoners are about 18 and 20 years of age.

Married in Own Cozy Home.

Miss Ethel Kathleen Fetton, of Woodland, Ind., and Henry Patton, of Mishawaka, were afforded the utmost pleasure of being united in marriage in their own cozy home on Lincoln way, Eighth street, yesterday at 11 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the pastor of the Eighth Street M. E. church and the pretty modern home contracted and furnished for the bride. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Edward Brown, pastor of the Eighth Street M. E. church.

The bride was attired in white Persian lawn, with bridal veil and was attended by Miss Gertrude Schrader, of Mishawaka, cousin of the groom. She appeared in cream silk. The groom was attended by Ira Kelley, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

The bride is a most estimable young lady and is the daughter of Philip Fetton, a well known farmer of Woodland and recently graduated from the Woodland high school. The groom is an energetic young business man of this city and is a stockholder in the Mishawaka Woolen mills and a young concern to be head shortly. Both have many friends here. A reception will be given later.

Mr. Fetton and bride are at home to their friends at 117 East Eighth street.

A Student's Home in Paris.

Latterly, the studio had been turned from its original purpose and made into a delightfully impractical home for students like ourselves.

The interior was one room with a stoner for the sink and running water. Across the end opposite the door hung an inside balcony so irrestistible that we engaged the studio on sight of it. The furnishings of the room consisted of a large table and three common chairs. In one corner a discouraged-looking little stove, like a mustard pot in shape, stood at the end of yards and yards of unused stovepipe. This rusty cylinder followed the outline of the room, up the wall, along the roof to the apex, then through an opening strayed outdoors, where, at last, it became a thing of beauty robed in trailing vines. An old easel served as hatrack and umbrella stand with a peg near the stove reserved as the proper place on which to hang the coffee pot to dry.

A short flight of steps led directly from the room to the balcony. This was broad enough for the two sleeping couches and a narrow passage in front. An artistic railing ran across the balcony between each other side of the stope that, on company occasions, served for seats. Under the balcony a model's stand had been left.—Caroline Dunett, in Donahoe's.

Different.

She had said "yes" and he was taking the measure for the solitaire.

"Darling," he said, "you are the only woman I ever proposed to."

"I'm afraid you have a poor memory, dear," she replied. "You once told me you had been engaged to a widow."

"True," he replied, "but that was during leap year."

Turkestan Engagements.

Wedding engagements in Turkestan begin with the payment of a sum of money to the girl's parents. If the girl lifts her lover, the engagement girl has to be restored, unless the parents have another daughter to give as a substitute.

Forbids Opium Importation.

A law has been enacted forbidding the importation of opium as a narcotic into Australia.
