The royalists attacked Mesoda the Chaves, which has been reinforced, but withdrew after a fight that continued for two hours.

BREAK IN DAM AT AUSTIN, PA., WHICH LET LOOSE TORRENT THAT DESTROYED TOWN

WIDEN BORDERS OF PORTAGE TOWNSHIP

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS MAKE CHANGE IN MAP.

Approximately 2,000 Acres are Added to it by Alterations of Board—Can New Get Vote.

Portage township boundaries were materially extended by vote of the county commissioners, to-day, acting under an old and almost forgotten law, which gives them the right to change the lines once in seven years. By reason the change section 24 of German township, the west half of section 35 of that township, the east half of section 2 in Portage township, all of section eight in Penn township and that part of section 17 lying north of the Lake Shore railroad in Portage Park in Penn township were made parts of Portage township. The remaining boundary lines were not changed. Approximately five sections, of 2,250 acres of land, were added to the township.

By reason of the change it will now be possible to secure almost the complete vote of South Bend in elections, whereas before it was impossible, because the city lay in several townships. The lines of the city were not changed, so that that part of the city included on the South Michigan street road from Eddy to Chippewa avenues is not included in the new township. The change will not be effective until the next general election and candidates for office will be required to be added to Portage township have been prepared by City Engineer W. S. Moore and submitted to the board to-day. The action followed.

GIRL FOUND DEAD WAS ONCE WIFE OF MINISTER

Tragedy Revealed in Life of Woman Known as Martha Beyrer.

Once the wife of a minister, found dead in a hotel from an overdose of morphine, to which habit she had become addicted in a life of shame, was the sad tragedy revealed Saturday evening when Jesse Engle, of Avilla, Ind., arrived in the city to take back to the old home all that remained of his daughter, Martha Beyrer, who died Friday, when her lifeless body was found in a house hotel. The story of her having been married a minister was told by her father when in the city. It appears the union was not happy and the girl embarked on her sad career.

The most act of the tragedy was enacted to-day when at Avilla, the grief stricken parents saw the body of their daughter pass from their sight forever. The funeral cortege was a long one. Mystery which was at first attached to the death was cleared up when it was learned that the girl was addicted to the drug habit. She had been taken to a hotel in Fort Wayne where she became ill and went to the hospital. There she was attended by a local physician, whom it begged to give her a prescription for more morphine. She was refused and finally obtained the drug somewhere, for it was found by a hotel employee made inquiry at the room, they found that several hours before, while she was entirely alone, her life had slipped away.

A social gathering of Woodmen of the World in South Bend yesterday was attended by fully 2,000 members of the order. DEFAULT IN $10,000 DAMAGE SUIT TAKEN

ATTORNEY FAILS TO ANSWER IN SUPERIOR COURT.

Absence of F. J. Louis Meyer May Perfect Lumber Company's Right to Defend Case.

Because F. J. Louis Meyer, attorney for the Indiana Lumber & Manufacturing company, failed to appear in the superior court the 25th day of the last term in response to a rule to answer, a default was taken to-day in the suit of Richard Skowen against the company for $10,000 damages. By the court action to-day Meyer will now be compelled to appear before Judge Vernon Van Fleet and show cause why the default should be set aside. It is conceded among attorneys this is one of the most difficult things to do, the absence from the city being about the only excuse the court accepts.

Skowen complained that on Nov. 26, 1910, he was employed in the repair of a building owned by the Indiana Lumber company, located on Colfax avenue, a brick arch weighing several tons in the building and Skowen was ordered to climb the scaffolding beneath the arch. The scaffolding gave way and Skowen asserts he was injured serious-ly and that he will ever regain his accustomed health.

If the default stands Skowen will be compelled to go before the court and prove his injuries and the defense will be given a chance to show that the case Skowen is a crime and the case was brought for him by his next friend, John Skowen. His attorneys are John W. Hitch and Harry Scanlon.

The case was called early after before the superior court of this city in the October term was opened. From the setting of last there are three civil cases to come up to-morrow. The jury drawn last week will report a week from to-day. Judge Van Fleet in the meantime has granted a leave the week to get for hearing the Gary grail cases in which he will serve as special judge.
