"BEAR" FADES AWAY

NOTRE DAME CRIPPLES ARE RECOVERING FOR WABASH.

WALDORF JOINS THE SQUAD

Football Game on Cartier Field Tomorrow Will Be Greatest Fight of South Bend Season—Lineup of Local Collegians.

SATURDAY'S GAMES.

WEST.
Notre Dame—Wabash at Cartier Field.
Purdue—Illinois at Urbana.
Indiana—Washington at Bloomington.
Chicago—Wisconsin at Madison.
Michigan—Nebraska at Ann Arbor.
Minnesota—Iowa at Minneapolis.
Oberlin—Wooster at Oberlin.
Northwestern—Kentucky at Evanston.

EAST.
Harvard—West Point at West Point.
Yale—Penn. State at New Haven.
Columbia—Amherst at New York.
Princeton—Lafayette at Princeton.

The clash between the big men of Notre Dame and the "Little Giants of Wabash, is being awaited for with much anxiety by the students of both schools and the prospects are that the battle will be one of the most stubbornly contested ever fought out on a South Bend gridiron. Wabash's confident of keeping up the pace set early in the season, looks for a victory over the local collegians, while the latter, are conservative.

Notre Dame realizes that the Crawfordsville men are mettle worthy of respect and that they will force matters just as hard as possible. A victory by a score of 5 to 0 will be a relief to Notre Dame and will an[illegible] Coach McGlew. Wabash expects Notre Dame to put up a game fight and will make the ball the length of the gridiron for at least two touchdowns.

The great defense of the Presbyterians has been a matter of comment all over the west and sportsmen in the east, whence, which has enabled him to build a stone wall of his forwards and this is one of the problems which Notre Dame will have to solve.

Rufus Waldorf, the 94 star halfback, who was injured in a game last year, is joining the squad yesterday. He is a six footer and weighs 180 pounds. A delegation came down from the hotel yesterday consisting of W. Downs, Ryan, Ryan, Ryan, Ryan, Ryan, Ryan, Ryan, guard; Bracken, halfback, Ryan, Ryan, and uniforms in the practice. All but Bracken will play against Wabash. In the two workouts yesterday the team was drilled on the forward pass and McGlew lectured on the technical points of the game, and McGlew was looking after the defensive work. The work showed an improvement.

MICHIGAN EXPECTS HARD GAME.

Wolverines Look to Nebraska to Put Up Good Fight.

The Tribune's special service.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 20.—While Michigan does not fear defeat, the coaches and rooters are looking forward to the game with Nebraska tomorrow with apprehension and the prospects are that Booth's men will make the Wolverines exert themselves to win the game.

Michigan will have to play a much better game against Nebraska than it did against Vanderbilt, according to reports from Lincoln.

The Nebraska team which the University of Nebraska Daily arrived with an interview from one of the coaching squad, who said Nebraska was facing the best opportunity of the Cornhuskers since the game with Michigan. Yet Then Baird got a telegram from Minneapolis warning him that Booth had the strongest eleven in the west.

"We'll have to fight hard," said Tost, "We must put up an especially good game to batter Booth's men if this weather keeps up, for the Cornhuskers are good mudders. They played a splendid game against Knox in the rain last Saturday."

INDIANA MEN ASK ODDS.

Think 1 to 2 on Result and Even Money on Scoring Proper.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 20.—Football practice did not end with the scrimmage and signal work on Jordan field yesterday afternoon. Football was fought in the gymnasium at the close of an enthusiastic pell practice by students.

Indiana students are willing to lay even money that the eleven score on Purdue Saturday, and 1 to 2 that it is on the result. There has thus far been little betting.

READY FOR BIG GAME.

Coaches Stagg and King Are Confident of Victory.

The Tribune's Special Service.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 20.—Wisconsin is in good cheer, Coach Phil King has told the students that the Badgers will defeat Chicago and last night 3,000 undergraduates gathered to celebrate the probable outcome of the great game to-morrow. Every man who spoke predicted a victory for Wisconsin. Ryan ex-Capt. Bush, usually conservative in his predictions, expressed the opinion that the Phil King team would be victorious. Prof. Hoxie made the statement that Wisconsin would make Stagg "go some." Assistant Coach Holt and Capt. Vanderboom stated positively that Wisconsin's chances were far better than Chicago's.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—Coach Stagg predicts a victory for his team to-morrow. He believes the Badgers will be driven down the field by his "defensive machine." He classifies his team as a "fast team, with a good defense, and one that ever wore the Maroon. Determination and the necessary fight are instilled in his warriors, he believes, but they are suffering from overconfidence. "We have good material," he says, "and we have good coaching," he boasts, "but we are now at our best. Our team is like a beautiful mechanism. It easily can be put out of shape, however, by the loss of a single link. We have a fine team—a splendid team, but at the same time it is not the team we had before some of the men were injured.

"When in shape De Tray, Hoskin, and Walker won't together perhaps the men then will be true Chicago men. We have lost Hoskin. They do not know what they are going up against at Madison. We whipped Wisconsin last year, and are too confident. Chicago never had better hopes than Dr. Stagg's team of 1905 has. We have the confidence of our battering ram Hugo Hoskin. If the team stands by Eckersall, Chicago is sure to walk down the field over the Badgers."

PURDUE LINEUP IN DOUBT.

Coach Harrington Continues to Make Changes in Eleven.

The Tribune's Special Service.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 20.—The placing of the strong quarter, Longshaugh, on the varsity in place of Shackleton yesterday leaves the lineup of the "varsity for the Illinois game in doubt. With the advantages in its favor, Purdue will make a better attempt to atone for the defeats of the past five years by trimming Illinois and 500 Purdue students will accompany the team.

King, the plucky right guard, had three bones in his left hand fractured, and is now carrying his arm in a sling. He will not be able to play against Illinois. Hall, the left guard, who has been out of the game for a fortnight with an attack of malarial fever. There is a possibility of his playing Saturday.

Longshaugh, the fastest back on the squad, received a severe injury to his knee and has been using crutches for several days. He expects to play a part of the Illinois game.

Coach Harrington, of Michigan, who has instituted the fast "hurry up" style of play at Purdue, and the team is rapidly improving in the game that will give Chicago a hard fight on Nov. 11.

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 20.—The Illinois eleven had the final hard work for the Purdue game yesterday. It was encouraging, especially on the part of the ends and halfbacks. Curtiss continues being tested heavily, but there is no change in the lineup. Capt. Pinkerton is hurled against all his plays. Jimmy Ray was ill in-bed, but will play. Wheeler has pressed Ray sharply this week and it is undecided which will start against Purdue. Brooks was tried at quarterback and gave promise. White and Kline were sent to the right—table to-night. The center trio on Saturday will be Wham, Bateman and McCormick.

ON GRIDIRONS OF THE EAST.

Harvard and Yale Practice Behind Closed Doors.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 20.—Harvard has gone behind closed doors in her practice earlier in the season than ever before because she has a big task on hand to turn out a winning eleven for the Yale contest. [illegible] stone being left unknown to the football club. The first part of work yesterday was in the shape of a long practice game with an against West Point, Saturday is a question.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 20.—Not a peep at the Yale-Nearsty players could be heard from behind the fence which stood of only a 10 minute half, and the coaches worked the squad as fiercely as they dared lest the 10 or eleven hard Hutchinson run the eleven in practice. Only the regulars were on the field. New formations were tried throughout the work.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 20.—Owing to the number of variety men laid up or under condition, the Princeton eleven
