ED SMITH PITCHES MAGNIFICENT BALL AND WINS, 5-0

MANAGER ED SMITH COPS AGAIN, 5-0

BRONCHO BOSS TWIRLS IN FINE FORM AGAINST MINERS.

IS SMITTY COMING BACK?

Where's He Been?—Dike Scanlon Receives for Steeds in Nice Shape —Many Infield Hits Off Both Pitchers.

It is to snicker, gleefully. When Ed Smith dropped a few games this spring before he got into the best of shape, due to the fact much of his time was taken up by managerial duties, some South Bend fans nodded their heads knowingly. Then out so long ago Ed pitched a very pretty game on the domestic lot, and followed his victory here with two on the road. Was Smitty coming back? To cap his late capable performance, the big hurler and Bronc manager mounted the hill yesterday against the Coal Miners and flung as grand an article of ball as is possible, emerging from a shutout fray with but six hits marked against him, and a 5 to 0 win for his team.

But it is a proper query to make, "Where's Smitty been?" Last year, in the case of John Henry Myers, he didn't have to "come back," because he hadn't been away. Just a little slow in getting down to customary slinging form, "Smitty" is pitching great ball, the manager on each occasion having been absent from the scene of action. He had everything necessary yesterday, while his ball emissed with greater force than at any time this season. The bore displayed good judgment in ueing himself sparingly before he was really ready to pitch. Ed is a veteran of the game, and knows his form regularly if he deems it needful, although his position as foreman of the Bronc nerd would excuse him from duty when the other members of his staff were traveling well.

Scanlon Tells Spitefully.

Dike Scanlon toddled behind the timber yesterday, and considering his injuries received in Monday's game, put up a clever exhibition. Dike showed great speed in chasing foule to cover, while he is full of life all the time. A double steal was pulled off on the Miners in the second inning, with Kelly on first, as he was reeling on third by the time Scanlon got the ball, while there was no one at second to receive a peg in that direction. When Kelly threw Grogan out at the plate, Dike put the ball on Bob spitefully as he passed him.

The hitting star of the day Wednesday was long John Somerlott, who poked three clean drives through and over the infield, and his bingles were the only out and out safeties secured by the enemy. The other trio was made up of bunts and infield hits, the style of hit which was very popular yesterday with both sides. Six of that fashion being stuffed by the locals, Speed Kelly and Eddie Wocsser, however, clouted small triset apeakers, only a team pedal meeting Kel from Somerlott, while Wocsser Somerlott and Koehler hit for two sacks once.

The Bronco started the scoring, but the Miners awaited neither time nor tide to begin trouble, two hits with two outs in the first being enough to bine a pit. These at bat junction Somerlott and Bates worked the double steal, and Johnny Barkwell, a Miner with considerable "rep" as a pitch swatter was up. Smitty then tightened and whiffed "Bars." On a wild pitch Somerlott scored, Kelly was in bad, but splendid hole curling and good support pulled him out with the Terre Haute side of the score board still unspotted.

Fourth Brings Three.

The fourth was fruitful for the locals, Kelly opening with a straightaway single, Kelly sacrificed, and Koehler turned a bunt into a hit out the left foul line, Geier singled to short, and Core scored Ben with a left field one bagger. Wheeler ultimately plated the martyr act, and Koehler scored on Mahoney's error on a fielder's choice, Geier reaching second on Mahoney's bluecher heave of his grazer. Kroe flew out to center, and Kelly hit one a good long distance, Geier scoring on a game sacrifice preventing him from scoring on his own hit.

Eddie Wheeler weared a triple in the sixth, but three hits in the eighth brought over another brace. Koehler opened with an infield hit. Geier laid down a bunt which Somerlott fled for field, but Kuh made a pretty stop and recovery, failing to nip Lefty by a narrow margin. Wheeler hit to Gwynn, who ran Ben down. In the meantime Koehler had fled fast, Cole and Wheeler parched at third and second respectively. Kroe fanned, when Wrisel beat one out, and Wheeler and Ben negotiated a combination steal, the latter going to third and Barkwell threw the ball to the stand in an effort to nip Wheeler, but Ben Scanlon grounded out to short. NOTES OF THE GAME.

The Bronchos looked fine yesterday. No wonder they was seven out of 7, on the road. And they looked almost as good when they lost the day before.

Fort Gerier met a double in the sixth, when he was called out for the first. Geier drew a fast one to Robinson's right, and Long John appeared about to spear it when a lucky bound sent it far over his head, and Geier was safe on second. Kroe was chalked for hard luck, he gave his foot a heel, and that Engan missed it. He didn't complain on the fielding.

Hugo Wolfe started the old game of "Hoop the Hoop" on Mahoney's group drive to third base.

Wheeler tried to get out of the way of a fast cross one in the fourth, and dropped his club parallel with his body. The ball struck Joe Bell, and bounded into Gwynn's hands.

Wheeler tried to get out of Kelly's way in the spelling thing. He also taxed a score in the fourth by plunging of Mahoney's drive over fright, a moment before Kelly had decided the ball was coming his way. Wheeler's foot lost the stand. He made the last start, but cumped under the gun by hard sprinting. Bates was able to advance to second on the catch.

Hargrave bumped into his former boss in the ninth and knocked him off his pins, he got off the bag feeling Kelly's throw.

RED'S BRILLIANT SHORTSTOP, WHOSE BENCHING IS CAUSING FANS TO HOWL

CINCINNATI, O., July 7.—Local baseball fans are getting a big kick (boot) because Manager Clark Griffith of the Reds benched Jimmy Esmond and placed Tom Downey at short. Fans and critics here believe Esmond is one of the most promising young men in the game, and predict for him a big future. In previous seasons, Jim alone has Jimmy played a brilliant fielding game at short, but for a time he was leading the National league in batting, and he present his averages average is .241. There's no doubt that Downey is a faithful, willing worker, who is always trying his best, but he will slip up at the critical stages and away goes the game. Esmond is a fielder, and he has shown good prospects of getting better. Last season he played with the Jersey City team of the Eastern league.

STRANGE COMBINATION OF MANAGERS TO WITNESS EVENT.

Flag Winning Leader, Seven-Year Boss and Present Bronche Foreman Figure in Pennant Raising.

When the pennant is raised Sunday at Springbrook park with the Evansville and South Bend clubs, furnishing late amusement there will be present both the manager who led the flag-winning club and one who strove for that bit of bunting for seven years in a calm endeavor to fly it where it will appear Sunday. To make the situation stranger, Eddie Wheeler, 1910 boss, will not assist in the flag raising as manager of the Bronco, but as a player, as the result of a crazy turn C. L. affairs have taken of late.

Until four days ago, Eddie had no idea of helping haul away on the rope which will hoist the blue and white cents to the top of the pennant pole. But fate was weaving a fantastic fabric for Wheeler, and the Bronc manager's illness necessitated an addition to exact, sore several ligaments in his ankle bone—and then Eddie Wheeler realized as manager of the Terre Haute club. The pair began to work out at that point, for Wheeler shortly after his return to the Bronc company at first sack for Manager Smith until Schmick recovered. Ed did not decide to take advantage of Wheeler's offer until he neared Newark, and then he was surprised to find the pair were disentangled and they'll live very afterwards, but whether happily, only time will tell.

While fate had been engaged in bringing Eddie Wheeler back into the fold in time for the pennant raising, Ed Smith was working his ankle back in the scene of his many pastoral hops, she determined to go her first scheme one better. So a fine splash of rainy weather about the time Zanesville management was figuring hard luck in landing in South Bend on the outskirts of Springbrook park, and the one event until July 8, when Eddie Wheeler, Aggie Grant and Ed Smith, manager Bronco, generally connected with South Bend in the capacity of the pennant raising, and the Bronc fans, will take part in or witness the final touch to the first pennant winning ever accomplished by a local club in the Central league.

Pays $40,000 for Yearlings.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 7.—In view of the contradictory statements, Harry Payne Whitney made it known today that the price paid for James R. Keene's crop of yearlings, 27 in number, was $40,000 instead of $50,000 as stated from Kentucky, where he went to see them. He says they are a very fine group. EARL HENNIS WILL PITCH FOR MINERS

"MOTHER" COMES OUT OF RETIREMENT AND SIGNS UP.

Terre Haute Club Strengthened by Return of Creek Hurler to Game—Refused to Report to Cardinals.

By Associated Press.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., July 7.—Pitcher Earl Hennis, who was sold to the St. Louis National league club last fall and who refused to report this spring, when turned back to the local Central league club out of retirement to-day and signed a contract to finish the season with the local club. Hennis was the sensation of the Central league last year and was purchased in mid-season by Roger Bresnahan. He refused to join the Cardinals after the Central season and also declined the team this spring and it was believed he was through with baseball for good. He has agreed to the terms of the local Central management.

Pitcher Carson, who was in the bat for Terre Haute yesterday, belongs to Evansville. He was loaned to the Miners by the Eva management.

CENTRAL LEAGUE DOPE.

The spirit of '76! It's the spirit of '11 in Newark which is being landed by scribes of the Buckeye city. In that year Newark had its only really good season in organized baseball.

Quinlener, last season with Fort Wayne, is pitching great ball for Springfield. Quinlener is a fast ball chaser, is out of the game because of dangerous illness, Midge Craven taking his place yesterday.

Elmer Redsle expects to sell Catcher Mike Kosnica for $2,000. Perhaps.

Dayton fellows have gored Deerfoot Spencer's big record at .193, and Springfield has a chance to do it. The hundred bingles in Spencer's goal, and no present rate is no dream.

Ted Wearing will join the Terre Haute club in a few days. He was released at his home in Independence, Kan., by Manager Bresnahan.

L. D. Smith will meet his club at Newark to-morrow. Looks intends to stand around a little and pick up a couple of youngsters who have been recommended.

Umpire Eagan, who worked in the Evansville series, thinks "Long John" Somerlott is one of the best fielding first sackers in baseball, major league ball included.

"John would be right there with the goods in the big leagues," said the tall fellow would only swing hard on the ball. Washington critics all pronounce him a wonder at first base, and he has a good batting eye, and knows how to use it. He doesn't swing at any John made a wonderful play at first base with Washington this spring.

"I was visiting in Detroit and the Washington club was playing the home team. In the eighth inning, the score tied, two men on first and Cobb, the second with Crawford on "Wah Hoo" swung a little late and the ball bounded between short and third, Cobb, of course, was off at the crack of the bat and was down to third for a play at that base.

"McGrife made a fine throw but Crawford was a long one and Mac threw low and too late to catch Crawford. Somerlott saw Cobb turn third and dash for home, as only Cobb can do it, and he came up with the story hop, itself a fine play, and without a second lost whipped to Street, who caught Cobb by 10 feet."—Terre Haute Star.

A. A. AFFORDS BEST RACE IN MIDDLE WEST

Jimmy Burke and Indian But 119 Points Back—Other Leagues.

In the middle west the Central league race has not rank with the close ones this season, 321 points separating the two leaders and the Northern after yesterday's games. The greatest race is taking place in the American association, where Jimmy Burke's Indianapolis team, camping at the foot of the hill, but but 119 points in the rear of the Columbus club. The Indianapolis team is playing in close company with Chicago-Urbana, trailing the leaders only 128 points.

The poorest race as a whole of these middle west organizations is in the Michigan State league, where 494 points behind Muskegon, Boyne City is the leader, and Cadillac is last, while the three trailing clubs are making the National league dash for the 1911 pennant a point of interest, the second division clubs are strung out behind the leaders in the Central. Lansing (Detroit second) is a good deal but the Philadelphians are crowding the Michigan boys, and a hard two-cornered fight will be sure to develop within a very short time, although opportunity for a general shake-up in the Central league is far too long off for the second division stones, St. Louis at the bottom having an average of .271 games won.

Kalamazoo, league leaders of the Southern Michigan league last season, is still in the race this year, but Battle Creek is leading the pack. Cedar The Kalamazoo will have their pennant raising day to-morrow, preceding the ceremonies here by one day. A post-season series of seven games was arranged between the Kalamazoo club and the Cubs, with the aid of assistance of Pitcher Jacobson and Catcher Tieman, of Grand Rapids, and Edgar Doty, of Evansville.

Jack Hendricks, former Central league manager, who was with the Cincinnati league club with his brother Charles, the Dea, Moines club, which is on the market, places eighth with a marg of .500 in the Central. Ward Bade Myers, another Central league manager, who is with Columbus in the Central association aggregation, are in sixth place a little over 100 points behind the leaguer leader, Decatur. Jimmy Burke, last year with the Billikens, is leading the pack in the Western Indiana and after a most disastrous spring campaign, is in a position where a few days may mean a difference of three or four places. Jimmy was chased from the lot at Louisville yesterday for arguing a decision with Umpire Gruschow.

League standings and trailing and the points separating them are as follows (a 11 million week association):

Central league—Dayton, .681; Terre Haute, .500; 226 points.

National league — Chicago, .633; 100 points.

American league—Detroit, .574; St. Louis, .271; .465.

MIKE JACOBS WANTS TO GET BACK UMPIRE JOB

Scout Appears at Springbrook—Zanesville Leaders Break of League.

For the first time in many a day President Harry Bax got go to his office this morning to be confronted with many new difficulties in connection with the administration of the Central league, although he has about settled what he will do with Mike Jacobs, who recently deserted the ranks of the Central umpires. Jacobs has written the league head, stating he has arranged his affairs in Louisville, K., satisfactorily, and is ready to go on duty again. With the addition of "Wahoo" Jacobs to the staff, however, Carson is undecided whether to take on the big umpire or not.

Applications from several other men have come in, among the list persons of Eccaman, who worked as a minor league umpire in the Ohio state and Kentucky, Jerome A. F. Vaughn, and Kerr, received. The latter was expected some time yesterday, although Dr. Carson had informed him he had his full quota of umpires.

The Central league is experiencing a scout invasion, Bax stated. The Cincinnati Carsonite has been purchased by a big league club, and Bax says he has reported to only a couple of the circuit cities, among which Springfield and Dayton, he has called yesterday. Sam Jeromy, Dayton's scout, was in Springfield, and by the stands yesterday watching the Broncbos and Miners play, but it could not be learned if he had definite object in witnessing the two clubs in action.

Evansville scribes claim he convinced Cappy Grosschow's decision the other day was the correct one, and in consequence are the laughing scribes of the Central. Quoting the football rule, they continue to ridicule the idea of a player being allowed to carry between home and either first and third base, bounds, over the bag, and without certain penalty, at that. Their contention is that it must land on the bag, and that Ed Smith, Evansville's Central leader of last year's Evansville club, was considered a good base ball man, and it is suggested for the bringing victory to their club. A lot of valuable time is being consumed because the Evansville scribes are so gullible as to allow Joe Raidy to twirling them on that Sunday game through fresh the Zanesville baseball bug, perhaps.

MYSTERIOUS CHESTS ARE NOT FOUND

The Tribune's Special Service.

CORNEY LAKE, Mich., July 7.—Search for the mysterious chests said to have been buried on the shore of Corey lake by Hesikia Thomas while Michigan was a wilderness and which was started by the finding of a box containing documents and maps, describing the "hidden riches," have resulted in naught. The search, however, is being continued.

Mrs. Thomas, widow of the peculiar old hermit, Thomas, is known here. George Knowels who lives in a portion of a house built by Thomas, says that as a boy he recollects finding carefully hidden documents and maps in the house. It is said that Thomas in the deserted hiding place, and that his queerness became noticeable about the same time. He roamed the woods, talking to himself, and it is generally believed that he could transform certain stones into gold.

After selling his home here, Thomas moved to an island in the lake, in one part of his letter, he refers to the "abode of the seven devils."

According to another letter found in the box there is another chest buried on the island. A map, which was among the contents, gives directions for finding the treasure, the place in which is said to be the center to be hidden in a tree. The whole neighborhood is excited over a search, immediately begun, for the remaining treasure.

Thomas' body was found in the woods about 50 years ago. He had been frozen to death.

TEAM IS WEAKENED.
