The Orphans lost again, but who wouldn't lose when up against the Greens in their present playing caliber? Grand Rapids could do nothing with Schafer in yesterday's contest and while "Mike" Warrender and his companions tried in vain to pull a man over the plate to avoid the dreaded "nine go a row," the Greens were pounding Pitcher Thomas for all kinds of hits, from bunts to three-baggers and 13 runs were piled up before the slaughter ended.

Grand Rapids started out as if the men comprising the team, which anybody claims, intended to break the fame of the hoodoo which has been working overtime during the last week. There was lots of "pepper" in the ranks of the tail-enders and the way that "Peaches" O'Neil, Barton, the priest, and "Pete" Burg pulled the ball out of the dirt and stoped line drives during the preliminary practice gave the 300 spectators an attack of heart disease. The Orphans looked like the appearance, while game was still young and when the fourth inning closed Grand Rapids was hopelessly beaten.

The Greens began scoring just as a bunch of happy Eagles put in an appearance. This was in the third. After Grant flew out to Geyer in left, Andrews lined out a pretty single to right and reached second when Barton muffed Schafer's grounder to the left outfield. Coffey then cleared the sacks with a pretty three-bagger to left field. The hit was on a line and as it went to the fence, looked good for a homer, but fast fielding by Geyer and Bailey would have resulted in throwing the runner out at the plate had O'Neil held the ball. The Orphans were retired in order, Schafer to Grant, well flew out to right, but Greenhow, Spangler and Grant hit for singles, Andrews made a double, Schafer was passed and Coffey hit to Warrender, who dropped the ball. Other errors by O'Neil, Burg and Hanford aided the Greens in making five runs. Cogswell walked in the fifth and Grant sent him home with a two bagger. The last three runs were made in the seventh on singles by Andrews, Spangler, triple and Warrender's error on Grant's fly. The official score and box follows:

THE CENTRAL LEAGUE DIAMOND.

Wheeling Stopping are After Pitchers Teal and Mason.

A new pitcher has reached Evansville. He seems to Opponents and he has been pitching great ball for the Washington, Ind., club. He has not lost a game this year and has made a fine record. He is a right-handed author. He is also young and strongly built.

"Pitch players are human," says the Sporting Quarter. "The idea that some people have that they are entitled to touch the men when they are losing does some harm; then anything else and it was a deliberate insult. Wheeling stopping are after Pitchers Teal and Mason, of the independent Paulding, O., team. Both pitchers were formerly with Fort Wayne and their work with the Central league and with Paulding has been still edgy.

Pitcher Mason, whose terms were accepted by the Wheeling management (is not, it develops, in good condition, and will not join Wheeling.

Business is to be given another trial with the Giants.

Pitcher Smith was in the game at Fort Wayne yesterday. He is a lively built youngster and has been pitching some good ball for Kansas City.

"Dunkey" Mason has won 11 out of 12 games for Paulding, O., and is a man like Wheeling behind him.

A brother of Mordecai Brown has joined the Hottentots. He probably will be given a trial in the box, but it has not been decided whether or not he will be taken with the club on its trip abroad.

LEAGUES WILL CO-OPERATE.

Big Organizations Will Get Together for Conference.

The American league stands ready to act with the National league in the forming of a new national agreement to govern baseball as soon as it receives formal notice from the National that the latter has decided to stand by the Cincinnati peace treaty. However, it is probable that the proposed national agreement will be drawn up by committees representing the two big leagues instead of by the presidents of the respective organizations as was at first suggested by the Cincinnati people.

DRINKING LIKE THE BRUTES.

How Edgar Allan Poe Wittily Answered Slowe's Rebuke.

The late John Sartain, the eminent engraver of Philadelphia, knew Edgar Allan Poe intimately. He was free to admit that Poe in his youth had been somewhat profligate, but always denied stoutly that in later life the poet was anything like the drunkard gossip credits him.

"At the University of Virginia," Mr. Sartain once said, "Poe did not drink too much. In the middle of his freshman year there he gave a peach and honey party. Peach and honey was the drink of those days—a mixture of honey and peach brandy that was as corpo-vivo as it was sweet and pleasant.

"Poe sat at the head of the table. 'Boys,' he said to his guests, 'shall we behave like men, or like brutes?'

"'Like men, of course,' a senior answered, in a rolling voice.

"'Then,' said Poe, 'we'll all get drunk, for it is something brutes never do.'"

GREAT POET'S SIGNET RING.

Young Woman Treasures Memento of Richard Henry Stoddard.

Of all the personal belongings of Richard Henry Stoddard that were bequeathed to Miss Alice Brender, the young bookseller, who was his wife's devoted friend, she treasures nothing so much as the signet ring the poet wore. She inherited autograph letters of great interest, and objects of art, but none of these is so suggestive of her benefactor as the ring. It was given to her when Mr. Stoddard was on his deathbed. One night the versatile poet called Miss Brender, slipped the ring from his emaciated finger and, without a word handed it to her. It is a plain ring of antique gold with the stone uncarved. Since Mr. Stoddard's death Miss Brender has been inconsolable, living alone in the family home in East Fifteenth street. She has made no plans for the future.—New York Press.

Ugly for Sure.

In a mining town in the mountains of Virginia lived two little chaps aged 8 and 9 years, neighbors and good friends, who passed most of their leisure time together in boyish sports, but, like all healthy boys, they sometimes "scrapped."

On one of these occasions the younger one, who was built on the lines of the proverbial man who could not stop a pig in an alley, was being twisted by his companion on his bowlegs.

He stood it manfully for a while, but finally being patience he blurted out:

"Well, I may be bowlegged, but when the Lord made you He made you as ugly as he could, and than hit you in the face."—Lippincott's.

Never Touched the Scotchman.

It is related of the late Andrew Brooks that he had at one time a very favorite pig who, alas, was the way of all pigs, and was converted into bacon. Brooks was accused of his delicacy to a friend, with a note as follows: "Dear Brooks—I hear you send you a piece of his end." The pig was related to Mr. Brooks, who laughed very heartily, and shortly afterward, having occasion to kill a pig of his own, sent some to a relative with the remark: "His end was peace, and I send you a piece of the pig," and he wondered why nobody saw the joke.—London King.

Jap and Briton Friendly.

As an illustration of the growth of Anglo-Japanism it is noteworthy that arrangements have been made for Japanese students to make a tour of the British colonial empire. They will leave Tokio in the middle of July and will proceed direct to Australia and New Zealand, where they will spend three months. Thence they will go to Canada and return to India and Japan by make a separate report upon the agricultural and commercial position and possibilities of the countries visited.

A Trial With Enterprise.

At Hyth, England, recently, a boat race broke open a safe, stole from it £10 and then escaped in an a motor-propelled yacht belonging to a Southend Northumberland land owner. The yacht was seen by a local tug off the Tree early the next day making for the south, and on this information a telegram was sent to the chief of the owner and others set off in pursuit. The thieves were proved guilty, and the yacht was not recovered.

Famous Pedestrian.

The Marquis of Mexico can run a distance of 170 miles at a stretch, running at a slow pace, running steadily and constantly. Frequently a letter has been carried from Guaymas to Chihuahua, a distance of over 600 miles, in five days, the carrier living all the time on a simple diet of pinole, a finely ground corn, mixed with water into a thin kind of gruel.
