"NIG" SMITH APPLIES THE BRUSH TO FAST SEMI-PROS

BRONCHOS DOWN WEST ENDS, 2-0

TIMELY HITS BY LOCALS DRIVE IN TWO RUNS.

"NIG" SMITH INVINCIBLE

Men Behind Him Play Almost Errorless Ball and Use Needles at Critical Points—As Fielding Team Bronos Look Good.

"Nig" Smith is almost perfect form, and Grant's Bronchos playing like a team of seasoned veterans, was too strong a combination for Frank McNichols' West Ends to crack and the Chicago semi-pros went back to the Windy city with 2 to 0 defeat to remember.

Smith was well nigh invincible, allowing but three hits, two in the second and one in the third, and in these two innings, when there seemed some danger of a score by the semi-pros, the Bronchos put the screws on tight and helped him out of the hole by throwing the men out on the bases.

In but one other inning did a man get to first, in the fourth, when Smith issued his lone pass to Gannon, and here a double, Smith to Koehler, put him out of danger of a score. In every inning the visitors went down in order.

Batting Improved.

The men showed some improvement along the lines of timely hitting although there is yet much room for improvement in this department of the game. From the present appearance of the line-up, whether changes occur or not, it would seem that there is yet all that is needed for a pennant winner in a little improvement in stick work. In the fielding department the work is almost above reproach, the boys having shown that they can perform pats in the mechanics of it clean and showing very seldom the errors in judgment that are generally much in evidence early in the season.

The thrashing treating kept the attendance to far below what it should have been, though it was so cold that as though there would be no game at a heavy shower in the second caused a temporary postponement of play.

"Turk" Coffey was the bright particle of the day for the locals, he getting and a double to his credit, a latter, in the eighth figuring in the run getting Krer as usual had a busy day in the right garden with three faultlessly handled chances.

Kurke, behind the bat managed to keep his pitchers in good form, between Smith's five strike-outs, three men nabbed at the plate and a foul fly that he pulled down near the visiting players' bench.

The Bronchos had batting eye long enough to smack out two singles, one of which scored Coffey in the eighth and the other, in the first sent Turk to third, where he died. Midge was the only other man on the team to get a hit and he also made up for time lost on the bases by stealing second and two assists, one of which, along with Vanzo's wild heave over third, was directly responsible for Smith's score in the second.

How Runs Were Scored.

Smith led off in the second by drawing a free pass to second on Craven's hit to the center field, Smith moving over third and Coffey to second on a hit to third when Coffey grounded to him. Craven over-run third on the same wild throw and in trying to stop another slipped and did not was caught between third and home again. Kurke hit in the head with the ball and handed a life. Once fanned and Hagerty retired the side by touching Kurke between first and second and throwing to Koehler.

Another chance to score was lost in the fifth when, with one man down, Craven hit and sto's second where he died when Coffey flew out to left and Krer did likewise to shortstop.

In the eighth Coffey led off with a double and went to third on Krer and scored on Cuvo's second hit. Cree took second on Koehler's grounder to Nichols and stole third. Kurke walked, stole second and he and Cree scored on a hit to center when Kurke grounded out to first base.

Things looked black for the Bronchos in the second when Ransom hobgled and was sacrificed to second by Koehler, Smith to Kurke, Kurke to short left and Ransom in trying to bring to score from second. With two down Hildgendorf was an easy out, Grant to Koehler.

Only the best kind of backing saved the locals' counting block from a score in the third when Ransom threw wide to Kelly Krer and Kelly finally running him down. McNichols then moved up the play and tried to come home when Thierry beat out Craven's throw to first but was caught at the plate by outfield's throw to Kurke.

In the fourth Ransom and Brown were safe and the visitors didn't have a hoodoo, only one man getting as far as first in the next six innings. The score:

RESULTS OF YESTERDAY'S GAMES AMONG THE LOCAL AMATEURS

The game ball game, of Notre Dame, lost a batfest to the Spiros yesterday afternoon by the score of 14 to 7. The game looked like a batting practice for the clothiers. Spaz landing with four singles, and what might have been a homer had he touched the third sack in his circuit of the bases.

Both teams were more or less crippled by the loss of regulars, but good ball was played. Gunn made the spectacular play of the day in right field, a one-handed stab which saved a score. Beck and Alby twirled for the Spiros and Kurke and Smith the Clothiers with Kleyler catching after three were runs to spare. The Spiros will play the final game at Notre Dame next Sunday, meeting a picked team.

The Livingstons defeated the Independents of Mishawaka, yesterday, by the score of 5 to 3. The Clothiers were very opt-played by the Independents in every part of the game, and they were outclassed in every department. The Livingston pitcher, who allowed but two hits. and went back to the use of the secret due, in which, the boys are proving most proficient.

Frank McNichols, who is an old Notre Dame man and many friends in the stand who hoped his boy when he was not in the field.

Catcher Earnes, who was forgotten in this league with Canton, held an informal reception at the plate for the first time around at bat.

Kurke's catch, which slipped and fallen a few more times, Midge Craven will find out what is the matter with his spikes and remedy the trouble.

Speaking of Koehler, perhaps Des didn't lose his indy-tite temper when Heathey Deehan called him out for the alleged failure to touch first in the sixth inning.

Bobby Lynch failed to materialize, although he was on the grounds. Bobby is said to have been called home to Pittsburg to attend a date to go to church and refused to break it.

Kurke's only hitless catch of Hildgendorf's foul in the fifth went far enough to be a hit, but the umpire has claimed the ball did not travel the 10 feet necessary to allow it go for an out. "And mother hasn't spoke to Pa ever since."

Spaz's first at first looks better every day, and he is getting the hang of the office of "Big Stiff." Spaz's hands have not been the equal of his feet, which looks good, although many don't like it, he is running to die bag in completing the play himself when he can, and he can, and he generally does. Spaz's stick on first has reached before the runner. Twice yesterday he did this, but the first time he had to slide and expire himself to the spikes of the second baseman, and the second time he was forced to throw to the limit of Pitcher Smith, when he thought he had been robbed of a put-out through Ben's failure to throw the ball to the sack. Just a for assists and a out-out were not enough for any pitcher.

SIGNS SECOND BASEMAN.

Prince, of Bushman, Will Hold Down the Keystone Sack for Schoek.

With the signing of Prince, Grant's second base try-out, from Bushman, Manager Schoek, of Anoka semi-pro team, has filled in the lone hole in his lineup and should be able to hold his own with the best of the independent teams in this state.

Prince made everything at Springbrook, showed fine fielding and hit him into organized baseball by next season. He is quick on his feet, has a fine hand with and knows the fine points of his position exceptionally well for a boy of his tender years.

Anoka has been working on the schedule for this team and last week closed for two games with Gaskins, May 5. The opening game, here and following Sunday at Gaskins, Gaskins with some strong semi-pro teams are lined up for the Anoka team, and a game with Notre Dame may be arranged.

KALAMAZOO EASY FOR NOTRE DAME

LOCAL COLLEGIANS PILE UP 22 RUNS.

Scanlon and Burke Prove Enigmas to Visitors Who Get Two Hits.

The Notre Dame nine took Kalamazoo's scalp Saturday afternoon, landing up a score of 22-1. The contest lasted but seven innings and was decidedly uninteresting from start to finish.

The Michiganders used three pitchers, but none of them got away very well. "Dreamy" Scanlon was on the slab for the gold and blue team for the first five innings and was in fine fettle. He allowed but two hits, fanned nine men and did not issue a pass. Coach Curtis used Scanlon to give him a workout for the Michigan game, which will be played here Monday, Scanlon pitching the entire game and showed that he is in line with the goods. He did not allow a single man on second base, and he quenes on the pass proposition. The score:

Coach Curtis will let varsity players record a run in the first round. Thursday, when the Michigan team, Mumford the opening pitcher.

Mumford was taken out of the box in the second round, being replaced by Mack, the second baseman. Mumford was hit hard by the Notre Dame team, was about as good here as on the slab.

Kenney, Kalamazoo's third sacker and later slab man robbed Ray Scanlon of a home run in the third inning. Mack worked the same stunt on Reid in the fifth.

The visitors's catcher was out running dive over the bench in the fifth inning after Burke's foul fly, Drummond became struck out the first time he came to the bat. The same thing when he came in in the sixth. Only six men faced Burke in the two innings he worked. Of these he fanned five, the sixth man telling the story due to Connolly and going out to first.

Burke batted a thousand per cent. He was up twice, drawing a hit and a base on balls.

Scanlon and McKee were tied for batting honors, getting three. One of Phillips' drives was a double, was McKee's were all singles.

Hamilton was the big steal chief, scoring five stolen bases. Kelly, McKee and Phillips were next with three apiece.

Mumford showed anxiety in the press stand in trying to connect with the varsity catcher.

The varsity won from Kalamazoo last year by a score of 11-1. Burke was on the slab for Notre Dame with his brother Ray at the receiving end. Thursday's game with Parke, formed the battery for the Michigan lads.

Ray Scanlon caught a dandy game behind the bat, Burke's brother being on the hospital list and is not in very good shape.

The Michigan team goes into Saturday's game with a record that has been playing real ball in the east, while the varsity is rounding into its top form.

In the two games played five of the Michigan team have hit .300 or better, average over Burke, 1.000; Bergman, .500; Phillips, .571; McKee, .375; Kelly, .333. R. Scanlon and Hurt tied at .250 with the other men below this mark.

DULUTH OPENS NEXT TO LAST SERIES TO-DAY.

KALAMAZOO SATURDAY

Team Starts for Zanesville Tuesday—Grant Will Have Hard Time Choosing Between Williams and Wells for Fifth Pitcher.

Duluth comes here to-day to open the next to the last series of exhibition games this spring. The Northern team left Kalamazoo Saturday and Wednesday, after which, Kalamazoo will wind up the Bronchos' spring schedule.

Inasmuch as of the eight games so far played, but one, Friday's game with Rochester, has been played under favorable weather conditions and as the management of the team has gone far into the hole in a pecuniary way it is highly improbable that another attempt will be made to defray spring training expenses through exhibition games, and between spots and poor weather Grant has had but two days practice with his team, and that on Saturday and Sunday and Monday the final practice will be put in, the team leaving for Zanesville, where they open the season, the following Thursday, Tuesday night, stopping in Columbus and thence to Zanesville by trolley.

While the result of the Kozar deal still in doubt, Grant's only problem is his selection of a fifth pitcher, the choice lying between Wells and Williams, the latter having shown up well in his opener. Williams worked well Friday, and if he can do the same thing for Grant, he will have his options on the pass proposition. The score:

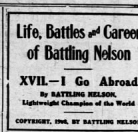
Life, Battles and Career of Battling Nelson

XVII.—I Go Abroad

By BATTLING NELSON, Lightweight Champion of the World

COPYRIGHT, 1908, BY BATTLING NELSON.



SHORTLY after my unsatisfactory affair with Joe Gans I decided to take a trip abroad. Can you beat that for a fellow who ten years before had been riding on the trucks of a train and stinging hash at a cheap restaurant? But you never can tell.

I ripped myself up in a swell layout of clothes and booked passage on the steamer Majestic. Finally I set sail from New York and arrived in Liverpool a week later after a most delightful voyage.

I was met by a committee of English sports and escorted to London. There I got up at Hotel Cecil. I had a great time for a couple of days and then accepted an engagement at one of the big music halls at Newcastle-on-the-Tyne. I showed in conjunction with the Williams-Nelson pictures and proved as big a drawing card over there as I had in the United States.

Get Tendered a Banquet.

I was tendered a banquet by the Hon. Louis Zollner, Danish consul at Newcastle. As I stood there in swell tuxedo I felt somewhat out of place. I thought I was a little over half of it. We left the cafe about a quarter of 8, and I was hurried into the ring at 9:30.

I KISSED THE BLARNEY STONE.

As usual, I started right after Britt and before we had been boxing thirty seconds I received a hard left hook plumb in the pit of the stomach." This punch was followed with four or five in every round thereafter for half of the fight. I was terribly hurt, but no one seemed to realize my condition but myself. In fact, I hardly showed any effects of being distressed until after we passed the tenth round, as was evident by the betting. As late as the seventh round I had very betting even money, and I would win inside of the ten round limit. I never stopped fooling the fight and tried to be as vicious as I knew how, knowing to Britt's serious that he was afraid to mix matters.

Jimmy Britt lost the chance of a lifetime by not taking advantage of my condition, as if ever there was a man in the world whom I had fought then and had a show whatever of putting me down for the count it was this same Jimmy Britt. After the thirteenth round I only held up and fought through gameness and my natural instinct of fighting. The old bulldog courage would not down in me notwithstanding the fact that he was setting a hot pace.

Britt Declared Victor.

Only once during the entire fight did Britt pick up enough courage to mix it. This was in the last thirty seconds of the twentieth round, when he tore after his in "do or die" style, and I am glad that he didn't pick up courage any sooner. As soon as the last gong rang for the ending of the twentieth round Referee Jack Welsh immediately declared Britt the victor. I retired to my corner, and before I got to the chair I was vomiting violently.

Determined to regain my laurels, I decided to start over again and work my way up, but the climb this time was not so long. In one way my bad showing with Britt was a blessing in disguise, for it spaced Gans to think I was all in, and he finally consented to a match.

Knocks Out Clifford.

To make another start, I went to Ogden, Utah, and agreed to a fight with Jack Clifford on Jan. 13. I succeeded in knocking him out in the fifth round. This convinced me as well as my friends that I still had a punch. The Associated Press account of the fight said, "Nelson showed faster and to better advantage than in any of his recent battles."

After knocking out Jack Clifford I went to Los Angeles, where I was billed to meet one Rudolph (Boer) Unholz. We met on Feb. 4 before Tom McCarey's club in a ten round bout, which, in my opinion, resembled a 100 yard sprint more than a regular boxing bout. For ten rounds Rudolph was content with racing from one side of the ring to the other with me in hot pursuit. Of all the fighters I have ever met Unholz is without a doubt the biggest joke of them all.

Owing to the boxing laws there we were compelled to fight ten rounds to no decision verdict. This has depleted me of a well earned victory.

Within a month after the time I had met the joke of the prize ring Unholz, in a ten session spiel I again met my old rival, Jimmy Britt, for the fourth and last time.

I was determined to fight each and every month and meet all the minor lights and force the public to make Gans its up with me. I met Britt on March 5 at McCarey's club.

I held the upper hand during the contest and during the sixth round floored Britt. The bell was the sweetest kind of music in his ears. From the sixth round on to the finish it was a case of Jimmy Britt running away as best he could. As he is the champion stiffer of the world, he managed to last the ten round limit. Of course Referee Charlie Ryton was not allowed to give a decision under the rules.

Shortly after this I met Abe Attell again. This time I was the joke of the pounds. The decision was a draw. The general opinion of the crowd was "let he had the best of me in clever-ness." I felt good, and the stack, I
