SUNDAY BASEBALL DRAWS AN ATTACK

MINISTERS TO APPEAR ON FLOOR OF HOUSE.

LEGISLATORS LIKE BILL

Critical Inning Will be Played Monday Night When City and Towns Committee Will Hear "Booster-ers" and "Knockers."

The Tribune's Special Service.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 22.—Another inning in the Sunday baseball game will be played next Monday when the house committee on cities and towns will hold an open meeting for the purpose of hearing the boosters and the knockers. This is the committee that has charge the bill to legalize the playing of Sunday baseball. It was expected that report on the bill would be made by this time, but now that the committee has decided to hold an open meeting and give everybody a chance to bale for and against the bill it looks like it will be some time before the house will have a chance to vote on it.

Arrangements are being made for a large delegation of ministers both from this city and other places throughout the state to attend the meeting and speak against the bill. The ministers will also carry the fight upon the floor of the house, if necessary, to defeat the bill. It is known that they are strong and they beat the bill in the senate after it had passed the house by a big majority. It is believed that the bill will pass this time, however.

Representative Ryan, of Michigan City, introduced a bill in the house for the registration of voters. It is practically the same as the bill introduced in the senate a few days ago by Senator Cox.

The game laws committee on criminal code, of which Senator Kirkman, of Richmond, is chairman, decided last night to report favorably a bill by Senator Kaye, of Noblesville, for a close season for fishing in all streams of the state for a period of two years. Also on a bill to raise the protection of the robbery from two to 14 years, a fined by law at present, to 10 to 20 years.

The house committee on rights and privileges, of which Ryan is chairman, favorably on a bill authorizing the state fish and game commissioner to print 15,000 extra copies of his annual report. This is in addition to the 1,000 copies now printed annually.

A bill that has aroused comment among the senators is one introduced by Senator Kistler a few days ago to require railroads to place electric bells on their locomotives. Representative H. A. Fleming, of this city, attorney for the Pennsylvania railroad, and the Vandalia railroad, has requested a hearing before the senate committee on railroads on this bill. It is stated that the bill was introduced in the senate at the request of Senator Kistler, and he says the railroads will not stand for it.

Gain for Republicans.

Under the bill introduced by Senator Springer, republican, for the legislative re-apportionment of the state senate, which passed the senate last session, the republicans would make heavy gains in the arrangement of the legislative districts.

Senators McCullough and Stutsenberg, democrats, are preparing bills democratic re-apportionment bills which will be presented to the senate in a few days.

Under the Springer bill, Marion county, which is normally republican, would have 19 representatives instead of three as at present. The republican normality would have one senator to itself and with Porter and Newton would have another. At present Lake and Porter together have one senator.

Another change in the senatorial districts is that Tippecanoe and Benton would get one senator each, whereas they have now one senator jointly. Johnson and Shelby now have one senator. Under the Springer bill Johnson and Bartholomew, democratic, would be taken from the district of Brown, Jackson and Washington and added to Johnson and Shelby. Jackson, Washington, Scott and Jennings would form one senatorial district. Perry would form one district instead of Floyd and Harrison and Harrison would be added to the district now made up of Dubois, Crawford and Perry. This would leave Floyd and Posey counties in a district by themselves joining Vanderburg, Warrick and Spencer in one twelve. These changes in the "pocket" would drop one senator to ---- ---- up for the increase in Lake county.

Change in Districts.

In the representative districts Dearborn county would be taken from the district of Adams and Allen. Bent- and Tippecanoe would form one district instead of Benton and Warren, and Blackford, Grant and Delaware would form one district instead of Grant and Wells. Delaware is a republican county. In the district of Brown and Monroe, which is democratic, Marion county, normally a republican strongholds, would be added. This would probably make this a republican district. Crawford and Harrison would form a district instead of Crawford and Perry. Harrison would have none left by herself as she now has. Harrison county is democratic normally. Floyd county would be separated from Clark and would be united with Jennings. Perry county, which was displaced by Harrison in the district with Crawford, would join Dubois in a district, the district of which Dubois would join Knox and Gibson Dubois.

Fountain county, which now forms one district, would be joined with Warren. Hancock, which now forms one district with Madison, would be joined with Henry. Jefferson, which now forms a single district, would be joined by Switzerland, which is now united with Ohio. Ripley would take the place of Switzerland with Ohio. Ripley is democratic now and forms a district by itself.

Johnson and Shelby, which now form two districts, both of which are democratic, would be united into one district, thus cutting out one democratic representative. Johnson, a democratic stronghold, would have two representatives instead of one. Madison county, which is democratic at present, would have only two representatives instead of three. Monroe and Brown would form one district instead of Monroe and Lawrence. Owen, Morgan and Putnam would form a district instead of Owen and Clay. Pulaski and White would form one instead of Pulaski, Starke and St. Joseph.

St. Joseph Gives Increase.

St. Joseph, which is a republican county, would have three representatives instead of two as at present. Tippecanoe would have one and Benton one district instead of Tippecanoe and Hamilton. Clinton went democratic at the last election. Vigo, which is nominally republican, would have two representatives instead of three. Warrick and Vanderburg would form one district. This would take away one republican representative. Whitley, Huntington, Kosciusko and Wabash would form one district instead of Whitley, Kosciusko and Huntington.

Of course, when the democratic bill makes its appearance in the senate it will be entirely different from this one and it may be changed on its way through the senate. It is understood that there is little chance for a reapportionment bill to pass at this session, because the republicans control the senate and the democrats have a majority in the house. It is said that it will take a two-thirds majority to pass it, so it is out of the question for either of these re-apportionment bills to get by.

GIRL CIGARETTE FIEND.

Twelve-Year-Old Child Denies Charge and Asks for Trial.

LAPORTE, Ind., Jan. 22.—That his 12-year-old daughter, Alice, sneaked up late every night, cut up capers with the village youths and was a cigarette fiend are the charges made today by Jacob Dunscomb before Judge Tuthill in the juvenile court. The girl appeared in court with her mother, her father and asked for a trial. The request was granted and the case will be tried next Wednesday. In the meantime, the probation officer will investigate the charges. The girl, two weeks ago her sister, Evangeline, died today, was arrested in Chicago and sent to a reformatory.

ROOSEVELT HOLDS HIS POPULARITY

MENTION OF NAME EVOKES ENTHUSIASM.

National Model Liberal League in Session at Louisville Lines President of United States.

By Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 22.—Mention of the name of Theodore Roosevelt as the greatest force for good in the nation, despite the criticisms of congress and the abuse of newspapers, evoked the greatest enthusiasm during the convention of the National Model Liberal League in this city. It came today during the address of Jonathan A. Cole, of Peoria, Ill., who said that in half a century the greatness of Roosevelt would stand forth above his detractors.

BIG FUTURE FOR SHIVELY

Former South Bend Man, Now of Texas, Makes Prediction.

DALLAS, Texas, Jan. 21.—A. G. Lockwood, formerly of South Bend, now traffic manager for the Western Union Telegraph company in this city, in a letter to the Daily Times-Herald relative to the senatorial contest in Indiana, has the following to say concerning the new senator:

"General as the regret doubtless is because of the defeat of John W. Kern, democracy's recent vice-presidential candidate, by the Hoosiers, it may safely be said that Indiana will not suffer by the outcome, as the upper house of our national legislature is rendered in any degree more decorous, or shivers the shadow of the home of Schuyler Colfax, the man who, by the unanimous judgment of the age of that great man's downfall, through the Pigeon Roost expression, he learned early in life the necessity of standing clearly and distinctly for what he thinks is right. To-day a United States senator from Indiana stands for more than any other man.

"Laved as was Hendricks, admirable as was Turpie, and grand as was Daniel Voorhees, the Tim Sycamore of the Wabash, Beveridge, the Lincoln of the nation's forum, a record should be none of these, and which will make work for the democracy of Indiana.

"Senator Voorhees is said to have been the most effective orator ever in public life in the Washington, but Frank Shively can occupy the same garment and straighten every wrinkle. The older members of the senate will doubtless be amused at the fun the freshman from Mr. Beveridge's state will be now included in the front to vouch for his credentials, and I am sure the contrast will be noticeably striking to the senate. As a member of the house of the lower house Mr. Shively has seen the "Hoosier Schoolmaster" in action, which, by the ladies in the galleries, is

"To one at all acquainted with Indiana politics, the election of Shively would indicate the elimination of the Taggart influence, which has been for the party a monopoly into the hands of a man who through 25 years of public life has never failed to give the lingo of suspicion to be pointed his way.

"The democracy of Indiana, now the strongest in the history of the state, is to be congratulated on the fact that it is not even now doubtful of the success of the democratic ticket in 1912."

Mr. Lockwood, who was employed by the Lake Shore railway in South Bend when he was a resident of this city, is the son of the late Judge Charles Fox Hodges, dean of the law school of Notre Dame university, the republican nominee.

JURORS JOB, HAPPY LOT IN TENNESSEE

ROLL DICE, PLAY CARDS AND DRINK TODDY.

JUDGE KNOWS NECESSITY

In Explaining Position Court Judicially Remarks That "Constitution Prohibits Cruel or Cruel Punishments."

By Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 22.—When the six selected jurors in the Cooper-Carmack murder trial were brought into court to-day one of them, J. M. Whitworth, called Judge Hart and said:

"Judge, I've been used to my morning toddy for a good many years and I missed it powerfully this morning. Can't I get one, just one morning?"

"The constitution prohibits unusual or cruel punishments" remarked the judge judicially. "Mr. Officer see that these gentlemen who are wont to have toddy get their toddy hereafter."

A little later attorneys asked time for a conference and were granted so much of it. Judge Hart then suggested that jurors who had dice should have them taken from them.

"Can they play cards" asking the deputy.

"Yes and if dice on the floor if they want to retrieve the money."

The case is moving slowly.

ONE BIG FUNERAL FOR HOLOCAUST VICTIMS

Relatives Hold Meeting to Decide on Arrangements.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—A conference of relatives of the men who were killed in the burning of the temporary crib in the lake last Wednesday was held at South Chicago to-day to determine what religious services should be held for the dead. A suggestion was made that a funeral be obtained at which clergymen of all denominations might speak. Another plan suggested was that all the bodies be buried in a protestant and then in a Catholic church.

That the fire in the intermediate crib which caused the death of 30 men here on Wednesday was caused by a carelessness employe going into the dynamite house with a lighted torch has been established to a fair degree of security by the testimony of the men who escaped by the explosion of witnesses.

The responsibility for this was placed on Nathan Fults, a colored employe, who was the last man taken out alive from the tubes under the lake. Logan Miller, another colored man who escaped, said that he and Fults and others were falling to leave given the real cause of the fire.

Miller is a drill runner. He began work in the tunnel last Tuesday. He said he was ordered to go into the dynamite house and get a fuse. He said he was going to get the powder. We all came to the top of the cage. I had a torch, and when I came up to throw the torch into the dynamite house I was stopped instantly and gave it to the foreman and walked down to the other door to get powder. I saw this man go down with the torch in his hands. Three minutes after that the flames came coming up.

Miller said he told how he escaped by jumping into the lake.

VISITOR—"DON'T YOU THINK YOU'VE MADE A MISTAKE, OLD MAN?"

SHIVELY AIDED BY BEVERIDGE

INDIANA SENATOR CONFERS WITH CULBERSON.

Colleague-to-be May Be Given Choice Committee Assignment by Minority Leader.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Senator Beveridge performed a very pleasant act of senatorial courtesy by taking Senator Shively, of Indiana, to see Senator Culberson, of Texas, the democratic leader of the senate, the matter of Senator-elect Shively's committee appointments.

Senator Culberson does not have a personal acquaintance with Mr. Shively, and Senator Beveridge has taken occasion to speak a good word for the man who will be his colleague after March 4.

He told the Texas senator that Mr. Shively is a very able man, a man of address and of power as an orator, and said that he, personally, would be very much gratified if Mr. Shively could be given a good place on the committee assignments for a new member.

Senator Culberson complimented him on his friendly regard for the interests of Mr. Shively, and said that he (Culberson) will bear the matter in mind when he is called upon to let Shively to the war fabric.

He also furnished Senator Beveridge with a list of democratic committee places that will be vacant after March 4. The list includes vacancies on the following committees: Appropriations, commerce, commerce, finance, foreign relations, foreign relations, geological survey, immigration, manufactures, military affairs, mines and mining, Pacific island and Porto Rico, Pacific railroads, patents, pensions, printing, privileges and elections, public buildings and grounds, revision of the laws, public health, national quarantine, expenditures in the interior department, industrial expositions, standard weights and measures.

Return of Premiums by Agents Regarded as Criminal Offense.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 22.—A bill to prohibit the rebating of life insurance premiums was introduced in the house. It makes it a crime for any agent to offer to rebate any part of the premium in order to sell the insurance. It is also a crime for any person to accept the rebate. The bill provides a fine of holding after the rebate, and also provides for the suspension of a state, who shall make an investigation when he hears of such a transaction and if the agent is found guilty his license to do business in Indiana shall be revoked and cannot be renewed for one year.

If an insurance company consents to such rebate the license shall be revoked also. Another bill introduced provides for the taxation of the capital of all life insurance agents. The anti-rebate bill was introduced by Wells, of Fort Wayne, and the license bill by Stahl, of Noble county.

FIRST CLASHES IN STATE ASSEMBLY

REPUBLICANS AND DEMOCRATS HAVE EXCITEMENT.

Attempt to Require New Qualifications of Foreign Voters Causes Trouble in House.

By Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 22.—The first real clashes between the republicans and democrats at the legislature came this morning over the foreign voters' qualifications in the house and the Linton superior court bill in the senate. The latter bill was passed after repeated attempts to delay acting on it until next Wednesday.

The contest over the voters' qualification bill in the house came on almost an hour and finally resulted in temporary victory for the republican minority.

Speaker Himan handed down the measure for second reading with the committee report that it be amended. At this point Representative Talbott moved the bill be taken up as a special order of business at 2 o'clock on Monday. Talbott declared that the provisions of the bill were such as to cause considerable discussion. Representative Strickland, author of the bill, moved to lay the Talbott motion upon the table and the Strickland motion carried.

Speaker Himan ruled the debate Representative Garrard, democratic floor leader, moved that the bill be a special order for 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and the motion carried unanimously.

Fifteen bills were introduced in the senate. Senator Cox offered a public utilities bill, which is modeled after the Wisconsin statute. It provides, however, for a 15 year instead of an indefinite franchise. Two bills were offered by Senator Kistler. One of them was to require the plugging of abandoned oil wells to prevent the big outlaw might be done to an entire field by an abandoned well. Senator Kistler also introduced a bill to empower the supreme and appellate courts to frame up questions according to the directions of the statutes and not upon the technicalities. The senate followed the example of the house in adjourning until 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

GARY AND HAMMOND IN SERIOUS FIGHT

BOTH CITIES WANT SUPERIOR COURT

Older Town Jealous of Infant Rival, Has Nerve to Ask for Another Judge.

The Tribune's Special Service.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 22.—The fight between Hammond and Gary over the location of a new superior court has assumed a serious aspect. Each town has a delegation here looking after its interests and the legislators are worried to death by them.

Senator Brewer, of Chesterton, who represents Lake and Porter counties in the upper house, is chairman of the committee on courts of the senate. Senator Brewer introduced a bill in the senate some days ago for the creation of a superior court at Gary he had the bill referred to the own committee. This committee made a favorable report and the bill passed.

Joe Hammond came to his rescue the day with a new bill also, Senator Hammond introduced one for appointment of an additional superior court judge at Hammond, giving that city a court.

The bill referred the bill to the judiciary B committee, but Brewer made a motion that it be referred to the committee on cities, of which he is chairman. It is believed here that Brewer's committee, of which he is chairman, will be asked to make any kind of a report on the bill. If he does it will be a report to kill it.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 22.—On motion of President T. L. Lewis the United Mine Workers of America voted $2,500 to-day as a preliminary aid for the defense of Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison in the contempt cases against them. The resolution also instructed the miners' international executive board to appropriate in the future as much more as necessary to defend these men a proper defense. The motion was carried unanimously. John Walker suggested that a special appropriation be made for the defense of John Mitchell separately. This, however was merged into the other resolution, with the understanding that this appropriation was simply, as Secretary Treasurer Ryan phrased it, a preliminary or emergency aid.

The miners this morning opened the convention to-day and presented by President T. L. Lewis a resolution passed in behalf of the union labor people of Indianapolis.

ARNOLD DALY BEATEN IN DUEL WITH FISTS

Actor Gets Worst of Encounter With Stage Manager.

CHICAGO, an. 22.—Arnold Daly's portrayal of David Murray in "The Strong People" at the Grand opera house last night was as good as could be expected from an actor who had spoken a line for duel Wednesday night and had to spend yesterday in bed at his Virginia hotel conditioning himself.

His English valet was his sole and constant companion during most of the day, though Dr. Arthur M. Bishop, house physician, paid a number of visits to in social parlance. The physician's handwork was plainly evident as Daly, with bowed head, darted from an Allensville through the basement entrance of the Grand opera house. He required excellent sight to detect two colored eye beneath a painted surface, but they were there.

Daly had two other visitors at the Grand opera house yesterday. One was a press agent, who called on business, and Ambrose M. Miller, manager of the Daly production, who called because he was sent for, but who tried to keep the fact from Daly. To all others Mr. Daly was "not in."

From Mr. Miller it was learned that Mr. Daly was much distressed over the publicity attending his encounter with Hamilton Mott, the former stage manager. Mr. Miller refused flatly to give the details of the fight in the "alley." The absence of the actor's key from the rack, the numerous trips of Dr. Bishop to the room, and the word of the clerk and the "bellhops" all went to show that Daly had been in a fight. To outsiders, the faithful valet denied it. When Mr. Daly started for the theater he did not depart by the Chicago street door and take a cab as is his custom, but went by another cab and hired an automobile.

Mr. Mott and Daly were in front of the house when, door as he alighted from the vehicle, but an effort to stop him for a conversation proved futile.

Dr. John A. Cavanaugh, house physician, who was called to the theater, reported pretty well Wednesday night, and the actor looked good to his friends except he was acted with a great energy. Every time he essayed the critics he closed both eyes tight and in a way to represent a toy bellows.

The encounter between Daly and Mott started during Wednesday's matinee, when the actor communicated an order through his valet to the stage manager, who resented it. Mott told Daly of the incident and asked if it was true in person, which caused Daly to become angry and exclaim, "I'll thrash you for that." The men clinched, but Miller separated them before any damage was done. The fat manager followed by arrangement after the evening performance.
