ESREAU, GIANT TWIRLER, OUGHT

"Big Jeff," Having Won His Bride From Stiff Opposition, Should Pitch Better Ball-College Crews Out.

BY FRANK G. MENKE.

NEW YORK, March 30 .- "Big Jeff" Tesreau of the New York Giants ought to have a wonderful year as a pitcher in 1914. Jeff didn't do so well last year, as he did in his first year out, and not half so well as many predicted for this huge bundle of mankind? But there was a reason, as they say in breakfast food circles.

Jeff was very much in love last summer with a sweet and dainty New York maiden who had many other admirers beside the "Ozark Bear." Jeff wanted her for his very ownand so did about a half dozen other youths. It werried Jeff night and day, and the worry affected his work. Jeff's heart wasn't in his labor-it was with Miss Helene Elizabeth Blake of New York.

But things will be different this year. Miss Helene Blake is no more. She now is Mrs. Charles Tesreau, and the "Ozark Bear" is so happy now that he won her as his bride, so carefree and so eager to show his little wife that he is one of the greatest pitchers that ever uncoiled a wing, that he gives promise of hanging up a pitching record that will stamp him as the greatest pitcher of all time.

Jed's Record. Tesreau, in his first year out in games for the Giants-an average of 6768. Last year, despite his worries, he grabbed off 2 2out of 35 combatsan average around 0630,

Before Claude Cooper, the recruit Giant outfielder, hurdled to the Feds he was called "the second Ty Cobb." But since then he has been calledoh, but what's the use of being too!

The O. B. people have stated frequently that the Federals' pitching staffs are made up principally of bushers, "while ours are made up of stars." Whaddaya think of the "star" staff of the Phillies are toting around this spring? Here they are: Alexander, Chalmers, Mayer, Marshall, Tincup, Gaddy, Jacobs and vs. Dodges. Haislip.

Not to be outdone by the Americans in frenzled finance in athletics. our English relatives have fust anbounced to the world at large that Dawson, the famous forward center of the Heart of Midlothian soccer football team, has been sold to the Rovers club for -15,000, while Sheal and Simpson, two gther Midlothian stars have been sold for $10,000 each.

All of which listens substantial like -but we'd like to lamp the checks just to sort of convince ourselves that a little "moonshine" didn't creep into the figures. We used to think those English folk not only went to church every Sunday, but clung to the Bible-and its teaching-on week days, but-

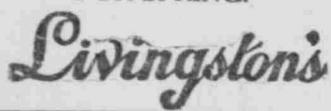

Before the world tourists landed cables used to trickle in telling of soccer games played in the British Isles at which the atendance was "in Lexcess of 100,000." That listened big. And we believed it . But the day the touring ball players cavorted in the presence of the king, the English newspaper persons cabled across that the attendance was "in excess of 75,-000." However, the tourists tell us that the crowd was less than 25,000, although it jammed the park. And the tourists ought to know. They demanded a gaze at the turnstiles, so Dodges18 as to arrive at the amount of their Ball Bands 16 College Crews Out.

ED MATT, GLEVER INFIELDER, WILL JOIN SOUTH BEND

Recruits Look Good and Additian of Ex-Michigan State Leaguer Adds to Bender's -Class.

Two more recruits, one a star last year in the Michigan State league, and drafted by the Chicago Cubs, were signed by Manager Ed Smith Monday morning. The ex-State leaguer is none other than Eddie Matt, shortstop and the other is "Cy" Watt, of Fort Wayne, an outfielding person.

Matt drifted into the state league last year and hooked up with Manistee just in time to assist in winning the pennant and in time to be of great assistance in walloping the Battle Creek champs unmercifully in the post-season series. "There's a reason" for the defeat of the champs of the South Michigan, as they would remark in the Food city but a good part of the reason would appear to be the infielding, running, throwing, slugging fighting and playing of Mr. Edward Matt, now become the Eddle of the South Bend club.

Following Matt's whirlwind trip through the up-state circuit a scout for the Chicago Cubs attached him to a contract, but Matt feared he would suffer the fate of many Cub recruits and be shoved off the train at some southern point and be left to wither and pine under heated skies in Dixie. Matt has an aversion to Dixie's clime and succeeded, in some manner not clearly understood, in getting his freedom from the Cubs. Incidentally Cricket fans deny that their team will be any weaker than t was last year. Sport critics all over the league have taken the stand that every team will be improved over 1913 except Battle Creek. This view seems justified, however, when the perusal of the lineup is made. The Crickets have gathered a likely looking bunch of recruits but have nothing that can compare to Niehaus, Callahan, Nevitt, Badger, Williams, Henges and McDonald signed yet to take the place of these stars. Nichaus, Callahan, McDonald and Nevitt are lost to the team for certain, the rest being holdouts. The youngsters are mostly from Cincinnati and vicinity and were personally signed by Manager McKer-
