No. 104 E. MAIN ST. TEL. 24.
MISHAWAKA, IND., JUNE 13.

The Mishawaka Trust and Savings company, Mishawaka's new financial institution, has made all preparations and arrangements to receive deposits on-morrow morning. The new concern is an outgrowth of the old Clark & Whitten banking concern, which had transacted business in this city since 1866, and a combination of the younger financial citizens of the community. The old institution goes out of business, their clientele being turned over to the new concern, which is having the interior of the old banking house remodeled and additional fixtures added. The new company has opened a savings department and will pay interest on deposits. They will also pay especial attention to lending money on Mishawaka real estate.

The list of officers chosen to manage the prudential affairs of the bank is a long one, indicative of the standpoint of officials that rank high in influence and commercial standing in this part of the state. The officers recently elected are: M. W. Mix, president; J. H. Beiger, first vice-president; Joseph Wolfe, second vice-president; W. M. Clark, treasurer; S. B. Hopkins, secretary.
